1989 State Champs

CHAMPS AND FANS—The 1989 Maine Class C Baseball Champions, with some of the more than 100 fans who made the 11.5-hour drive to Orono to see the Rebels defeat George Stevens Academy 6-2 for their first state title since 1979. The champs are standing from left, scorers Michelle Campbell and Alison Davis, assistant coaches Jim Fiske and Jeff Remington, Brant Remington, Corey Dugway, Rick Roy, Jim Merrill, Gary Williamson and Bob Lyon. Front row, bat boy Adam Williamson, Nate Buckman, Nathan Bean, Nathan Brown, John Elliot, Tom James and Coach Levi Brown. Among the fans at Saturday's game were some of the Little League coaches who had instilled the fundamentals of the game in this year's Maine champions, including Roger Conant, Emerson Merrill, Herb Lyon, and the senior Gary Williamson and Dick Roy.

They're champs!

Sound familiar?
Frighteningly familiar?
Bottom of the last inning. The opposing team down to its last batter. The local heroes one out away from that long-sought championship.

No way we lose it now, right?
The cheers, the pitch, the swing, the routine ground ball to first.

It was now or never, and they came through. They go out as the best!

The eight seniors on the Telstar Rebel baseball team ended a four-year quest Saturday at the University of Maine's Mahaney Diamond. They, and their underclass teammates, defeated George Stevens Academy, 6-2, for the Maine Class C baseball championship.

The seniors, most of whom have been starters since they were freshmen, had taken a step closer to the state title in each of their last three years—reaching the Western Maine championship game as sophomores, winning it as juniors, but losing the state title, then clinching the big one with Saturday's victory.

But the Rebels didn't make it easy on more than 100 of their fans who had made the three-hour trek to Orono—or on Coach Levi Brown, who put in many miles of his own nervously pacing in the dugout.

Going into the sixth inning the game was tied. Hard-throwing right-hander Gary Williamson, backed by an error-free defense, was holding the Eastern Maine champs to only two runs, but George Stevens' sophomore Kevin Gilley's off-speed, edge-of-the-strikezone offerings were baffling the Rebel batters, who often went down flailing at air and walked back to the dugout muttering to themselves.

But with one out in the top of the sixth, Rebel Captain Nathan Bean drove a double into the gap in left. Nathan Brown came in to run for Bean, reached third on a George Stevens error, then scored when lead-off hitter Jim Merrill (3 RBI) scored.

Agnes Gray 4th graders score well in state test

Fourth-graders at the Agnes Gray School, in West Paris, did especially well in reading in this year's Maine Educational Assessment testing, but in writing they—like their peers in SAD #44—did not fare so well.

The Agnes Gray scores for the six areas of the test are as follows (with the state average score in parentheses):

- Reading—220 (250)
 - Writing—200 (250)
 - Mathematics—265 (255)
 - Science—260 (260)
 - Social studies—230 (245)
 - Humanities—270 (250)
- As is usually the case, the scores for the Agnes Gray School are generally ahead of those for 4th-graders in SAD #17 as a whole.
- The district's overall 4th-Grade results, which were below the state in all cases, were: reading—240, writing—220, mathematics—245, science—235, social studies—235, humanities—220.

Affordable housing in Bethel: a bad situation getting worse

The report of the Governor's Task Force on Affordable Housing, presented to the governor last September, states, "In the emerging Maine, affordable housing stands as the number one priority. Older citizens, facing increasing maintenance and property taxes, worry about keeping their homes. A young couple, confronting the upward spiral of land and housing costs, see their dream of home ownership disappear. A single parent, paying over 50 percent of her income for rent, struggles to provide a decent home. A low income worker, caught by shifts in the economy, discovers that increased wages have not meant a better place to live. An entrepreneur, intent on expanding his business, is unable to find new jobs because workers cannot find an affordable place to live within commuting distance."

The grim statewide picture is reflected in the Bethel situation, according to a study prepared by the Affordable Housing Committee, with assistance from the number of housing units being built. • Moreover, much of the housing that is being built is for seasonal use.

• While the numbers of people living in Bethel has stayed fairly constant, the reduced size of the family units has meant that more housing units are needed.

• The shortage of housing has led to higher housing prices, both in the rental and home ownership markets.

• Rentals are extremely scarce at affordable price, partially because many rentals have been given over to the tourism industry.

• Subsidy Village will possibly change from federally subsidized housing to regular housing when the mortgage is paid up, in the year 2002, which would further drive up the price of rental housing as its 24 units are hosted in place.

• The housing shortage will have a dampening effect on the local economy because employers will not be able to attract workers, who will be reluctant to

Selectmen agree to call conference on solving housing squeeze

The Board of Selectmen, Monday night, praised the work of the Affordable Housing Committee and voted unanimously to accept the group's suggestion that the selectmen call a meeting of various groups and individuals to come up with solutions to the housing crunch. "The town needs to start working with developers...to produce affordable housing," committee co-chair Marcia Denison told the board.

The discussion was introduced by Valerie Lamont, the University of Southern Maine researcher who helped the committee develop the methodology used in the report they prepared on the housing situation in town. (See separate article.)

Ms. Lamont pointed out that the number of housing units has not been increasing nearly as rapidly as the number of households. "Population has not been growing that much in Bethel," she told the selectmen, "but, by gosh, households

Bethel Town Meeting opts for record-breaking town budget

Bethel Town Meeting was in a spending mood (more or less) last Wednesday night. The approximately 100 voters who showed up at the Telstar auditorium decided to purchase a new dump truck for the Highway Department while setting aside monies for a replacement police cruiser and a replacement fire truck.

The Board of Selectmen had suggested

Foreclosure complaint filed against Marketplace

A Florida mortgage company has filed a case in superior court, in South Paris, seeking to foreclose on the Marketplace grocery store, in Locke Mills.

Raymond Green & Co., which does business from a Boston address, claims that the owners of the Marketplace, David Mero and David Brunnett, have failed to make payments on a $300,000 loan taken out in November of 1988.

The foreclosure complaint also seeks to attach property owned by the two men in Bethel and Newry.

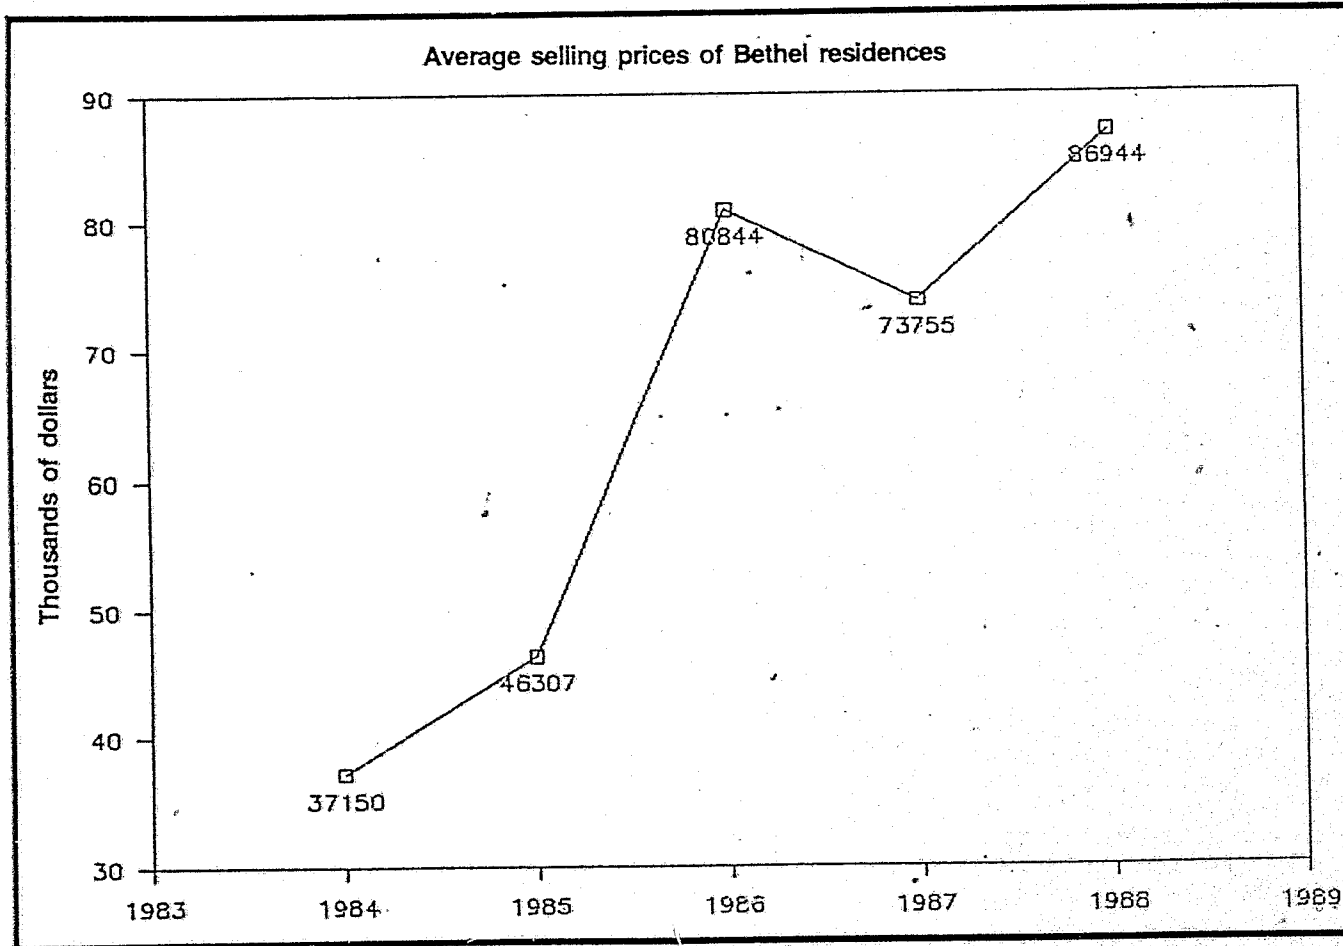

The Marketplace closed its doors this March, less than a year and a half after it had been purchased by Mr. Mero and Mr. Brunnett, both of whom are from Massachusetts. Prior to their purchase of the store, the property had languished in federal bankruptcy court for a year after former owner John Praig walked away from it, owing money to people throughout the state, as well as to the federal Small Business Administration.

The store, prior to its recent closure, employed 17 local people. The former employees, along with nearly 500 other local residents, business people and municipal officials, have petitioned the creditors to work out an arrangement that would allow the store to continue operations under the management of Messrs. Mero and Brunnett.

Mr. Mero told The Citizen he was still trying to arrange permanent financing for the business, but he estimated the chances of reopening the store at no better than 50-50.

He attributed the problem at the store to lack of working capital and the need to rely on short-term financing at what he described as "exorbitant" interest.

University of Southern Maine.

The study, given to the Board of Selectmen and Planning Board, indicates that the housing situation for low and moderate income people has gotten worse in recent years and will get much worse in coming years—unless something is done to reverse the trend.

The report shows that:

- Since 1980, the cost of local housing has grown much more rapidly than local incomes.
- Since 1980, the number of family units has increased more rapidly than the population, and much more rapidly than move to an area where they can't find housing.

• It will become increasingly difficult for young people raised in the area to establish homes and stay in the area. According to data compiled by the committee, median family income in Bethel rose from $14,934 in 1980, to $23,684, in 1988, an increase of 59 percent. But over one-third of Bethel households earn less than $15,000.

Compare these figures on family income with the figures on home prices. While the figures on average home

Events in China follow VOA boss to Bryant Pond

Although he was trying to enjoy a quiet weekend at his island home on Lake Christopher, in Bryant Pond, Richard Carlson's mind was still very much on what is going on halfway around the world, in China.

Mr. Carlson, who has been a summer resident in Bryant Pond since he purchased the island, in 1976, is director general of the Voice of America. As such, he is trying to keep his government-run network one step ahead of Chinese efforts to throttle its voice.

So far the VOA has been able to continue its broadcasts with relatively little interference. Mr. Carlson said the Chinese authorities have attempted to jam the VOA signal, which originates in

River pollution rationales from paper industry reps don't hold water at forum

Paper industry representatives visited Bethel last week to explain their reasons for resisting regulations intended to reduce the pollution paper mills dump into Maine's rivers.

The occasion was a water quality forum sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. In addition to the paper industry, the Maine Department of Environmental Protection had promised to send a representative to the forum. However, at the last minute the DEP bureau head who had intended to attend said he had been told by his boss to cancel, according to Chamber director Leon Favreau, who organized and moderated the session.

About two dozen local people turned out for the discussion, listened politely, then asked questions of their own.

From the tone of their questions, the local folks didn't appear much impressed with either the reasoning or motivation of the paper company representatives.

A note from the publisher

Congratulations to the winners in last week's Bethel elections, particularly newcomers John Thurston and Jane Rolfe. John was elected, as a write-in candidate, to the Board of Selectmen, defeating incumbent Victor Coolidge, who chose to run as a write-in candidate. Jane took a seat vacated by Richard Crandall. I wish both of them good luck in their new part-time careers as elected officials.

Voters could not work up much enthusiasm for the election. Only 233 turned out to vote, although there are 1,632 registered voters in the town.

A number of voters had difficulty with the procedure for entering a write-in vote and two dozen votes had to be thrown out, according to Town Clerk Merton Brown.

The vote totals, in case you missed them in last week's paper, were as follows. For the two selectman seats, incumbent Arthur Gilbert received 176 votes, write-in candidate John Thurston 115 votes and incumbent write-in candidate Victor Coolidge 80 votes. For the two assessor seats, Mr. Gilbert received 183 votes, Mr. Coolidge 66 and Mr. Thurston 53.

Town Clerk Brown, analyzing why the Thurston-Coolidge results flip-flopped, speculated that voters filling in write-in ballots either forgot that they had to list Mr. Thurston under the assessor heading as well as the selectman heading, or they simply decided that they liked the way Mr. Coolidge had handled the assessing work.

Other residents receiving write-in votes for selectman were: David Thurston, 1; Don Vautour, 1; Harry Dresser, 1; Wendy Rice, 1; Stan Howe, 1; Danny Kennagh, 1; Bruce Morey, 1; Martin Brown, 1; Fred McMillin, 2; and Bob Davis, 1.

For assessor, other write-in candidates were Joan Putnam, Fred McMillin, Bob Davis, Danny Kennagh, Don Vautour, Harry Dresser, Wendy Rice and Stan Howe.

For the two school director seats, incumbent Merton Brown received 213 votes, while unopposed newcomer Jane Rolfe received 170. Those receiving write-in votes for school director were Paul McGuire, Carroll Murphy (who had earlier dropped out of the race), Celina Couture, Richard Crandall (two votes) and Shirley Holston.

While the elected offices are now all filled, there are still plenty of town boards that need clear thinkers willing to work. The Planning Board is the most in need of new members. Call the town office if you're interested.

Congratulations to the Telstar baseball team, state champions in Class C.

And congratulations to the supporters of the team—about 100 of whom traveled to Orono Saturday for the championship game—whose backing was such an important ingredient in this fine Rebel baseball season.

When the conquering heroes—and their parents, relatives and friends—went driving through Bethel about 10 p.m. following a blaring fire truck, my wife Mary came rushing downstairs saying, either the town is burning down or the Rebels have won. She was right.

I understand it was Superintendent Dewaine Craig who convined with the Fire Department, and local supporters who could not make the trip to Orono, to meet team at the Rte. 2 picnic area on their way back. Principal Ted Davis, I gather, was the organizer at the Orono end. The team, on the other hand, was caught off guard—the first time they had been all day. You can depend on Dewaine to always think positively, and to think ahead.

Our reporter Mike Daniels, who covered the action in Orono—and whose story and photo can be found on page 1—said it was an excellent game. He also said the game was played on a dry field—an anomaly in an otherwise sodden state. The playing surface was kept dry by a grounds crew that had covered it during the rains Friday. And fortunately the Saturday rains stopped before game time and didn't start up again until Saturday night.

Dot Murphy, of Bethel, called the other day, concerned that she hadn't heard or read any news reports lately on what was happening to the suspects in the fish kill at the Governors Hill Fish Hatchery.

You'll recall that early this spring, suspected vandals removed a plug at the fish hatchery, near Augusta, which caused 400 brooder trout to die. The immediate damage was estimated at $80,000, but the long-term damage could go much higher, as trout fishing in the state will be hurt if the trout stocking program is forced to be cut back.

You may also recall that four police officers on the Augusta Police Department were suspected of involvement in the action that killed off the trout. Two were subsequently fired and two resigned from the police force.

I called up a colleague at the Kennebec Journal (the daily paper in Augusta) to find out what has happened since. Scott Gibson, the editor of the paper, says the Augusta PD conducted its own investigation of the matter and sent its report to the State Attorney General. The Kennebec Journal reported last week that the Attorney General's office is expected to announce its findings and recommendations shortly.

have—and that's what's important so far as housing.

She said the increase in young households and elderly households was putting more strain on rental housing. Moreover, the fact that many rentals were being let to seasonal residents was putting extra strain on that segment of the housing market. "There doesn't seem to be enough rental housing," she concluded.

The vote on accepting the report and supporting the call for a conference of town and school officials, developers, bankers and real estate people, was 4-0. Selectman Peter Haines was absent. He broke his hip in a fall sustained the night of Town Meeting. He is currently in Stephens Memorial Hospital.

In other business, the selectmen approved a victualers and lodging house for the Holiday House, which is the former Miller's Inn, on Main Street.

The new owner of the property is Tom McGinniss, formerly of Montauk Point, N.Y. He said he will operate the property as a bed and breakfast.

Being the first meeting following town elections, the board welcomed newcomer John Thurston and re-elected Arlan Jordy chairman.

The selectmen then went behind closed doors for over an hour to discuss with the town attorney a proposed settlement of the DBP consent agreement on the sewer plant. The board also discussed behind closed doors a request for a property tax abatement on F788 and F789 taxes, due to poverty.

In open session, the board approved payment of new bills from T.Y. Lin for consulting work on the airport industrial park, in the amount of $2,385.

The board also approved the payment of $3,000 to George Hayes for the dozen new sterile dwarf pear trees on Main Street. Half the amount has already been donated to the town by Bethel Furniture Stock. Chairman Arlan Jordy said the town was looking for additional donations to keep the tree-planting program alive.

Town Meeting cut out all funds for the program. (See separate story.)

The board—together with an appointed citizen group—was expected to meet last night (Tuesday) to continue going over police chief resumes, with an eye towards inviting the best candidates for interviews by the end of the month.

The board will also meet next Monday because of a remaining agenda item not completed Monday.

Band concert July 1st

The Atlantic Brass Band, of Millville, N.J., will perform in a free, public concert on Saturday, July 1, at The Bethel Inn terrace lawn, at 4 p.m. Local residents are invited to bring a blanket and enjoy the music. The concert is sponsored by The Bethel Inn, in cooperation with Sunday River Ski Resort.

In the style of the British brass bands popular throughout England, this 30-piece, all-brass band is unique in the United States. Members of the band are among the best semi-professional players in Delaware, southern New Jersey and Pennsylvania. All are volunteers. The band plays extensively in the Atlantic area and has performed in Indianapolis, Toronto, Canada, and Disney World. It is the only American brass band to have toured England and for an unprecedented three years in a row has been judged to be one of the two best brass bands in North America.

LOVE THAT DIRTY WATER—Paper industry representatives at last week's Chamber of Commerce water quality forum, held at Telstar High School, relied on the three sample jars to demonstrate how inconspicuous a difference 20 color units make in the clarity of the water. The difference, or lack of it, must be in the eye of the beholder, however, because it was readily apparent to The Citizen's reporter—even when the jars were viewed (from 10 feet away) against the brown background of the table top, under the dim lighting provided by the Lecture Hall's fluorescent fixtures. Conspicuous paper mill color, odor and foam discharges, the paper representatives are, left to right, Karen Brown-Mohr, head of Boise-Cascade's governmental affairs office, Floyd R. Rutherford II, president of the Paper Industry Information Office, and Dan Dorfner, manager of environmental affairs for James River Corp. At the far right, Steve Wight, president of Friends of the Androscoggin, looks on.

River

As evidence of the environmental good faith and commitment of the paper companies, the representatives repeatedly cited improvements in river water quality since the mid-'70s.

But, pointed out Ginger Kelly, of Bethel, these improvements were the result of federal water quality legislation—legislation the paper companies fiercely resisted at the time.

"They didn't do a thing until they were forced to," Mrs. Kelly said. How much, she asked, would the rivers have improved if it had been left up to the paper companies?

Probably a lot less," acknowledged Ray Danforth, manager of environmental affairs for the James River mills in Berlin and Gorham, N.H.

Mr. Danforth, however, cited a number of incremental improvements the company has made since the mid-'70s, improvements which "in all probability have reduced the load (of pollutants) to the river by another 10 percent."

He also noted that James River Corp. was developing a large state-of-the-art landfill for its New Hampshire solid waste. The landfill will be open also to local municipalities, he said, and consolidating their out-of-state landfills into the single, better engineered facility will reduce "the overall load on ground water in the North Country."

He, and others, argued that real river clean-up comes from such technological commitments—when the plants are allowed to modernize and install more efficient, less polluting machinery.

If the paper companies had been remiss in resisting the original clean-water legislation, he said, the time has nonetheless come when it was in the best interest of all parties to cooperate and work together. "There are solutions to these problems," he said, "but a cooperative approach gives you a better job."

Floyd R. Rutherford II, president of the Paper Industry Information Office, gave an indication of what form the paper companies would like to see that cooperation take.

Referring to the bill—recently vetoed by Governor McKernan—that would have tightened controls on color, odor and foam pollution from paper mills, Mr. Rutherford said the industry had opposed the bill because the studies it was based on were too narrow, and it was not sufficiently specific about the cost involved in meeting the proposed standards.

To correct this, he said, the industry proposed to conduct its own study, one that would look at what types of improved technology could be integrated into current mill operations, what effect the new color-odor-foam standards would have on the public's perception of the rivers, and what ultimate economic benefits would result from the public's improved perception of the river.

When the industry's study was complete, he said, the Legislature would be able to draft a bill based on much better data than was the bill ultimately vetoed by the governor.

The bottom line for such legislation should be "what Maine people are willing to pay in order to get them to go to the river instead of to the lake," he argued.

State Representative Jeff Mills (D-Bethel), countered that studies were fine, but it was past time to get the paper mills working toward specific color, odor and foam goals.

The audience appeared to agree. John Wheeler, of Bethel, noted that the Connecticut River flows through country much like that found along the Androscoggin, "but the Connecticut River doesn't smell," nor is it covered with foam, as is the Androscoggin for much of its course.

Tom Remington, of Bethel, compared the river to a cancer. "It's there, we look at it every day, we smell it every day—and it stinks."

"Something has to be done," said Burt Mills, of Newry. "I'm not allowed in my industry, or in my own home, to have those kinds of discharges."

Steve Wight, of Newry, who is president of the Friends of the Androscoggin, summed it up: "If the river is cleaner it will help everyone; it's a recreational, scenic resource for the area. I hope the paper industry representatives will take back to their companies, the message that the folks in Bethel are very concerned about the river. The time has come to an end when we're just going to say 'that's the way it is,' and just accept it."

Bike trekker suffers close encounter with wood chip trailer truck

Quick action by a Locke Mills trailer-truck driver probably averted tragedy last Friday afternoon.

Rodney Withey, 32, was driving a load of wood chips west toward Farmington on Rte. 2 when a tired 14-year-old biker swerved in front of Mr. Withey's rig. The biker was one of over 400 on Rte. 2 last weekend. They were taking part in the Maine Lung Association's weekend bike trek, "From Sunday River to the Sea."

"I grabbed the wheel and went left," Mr. Withey said. "There was nothing else to do."

The truck went into the eastbound lane, tipping on its side and sideswiping a pickup that had been headed east.

Mr. Withey was thrown through the windshield of his cab and knocked unconscious.

As it swerved, the trailer-truck brushed against the young biker, Jeffery Meyers, of Augusta, spilling him onto the ground.

Jeffery was taken to Franklin Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. Mr. Withey was also treated and released at FMIH.

This week he was home with his family, on Mt. Abram Road, recovering from cuts, bruises and a possible concussion.

The Central Maine Morning Sentinel quoted Farmington police as crediting Mr. Withey with saving the young boy's life; Mr. Withey gives the credit to his defensive-driving techniques (he's a licensed instructor).

Mr. Withey said his truck had been passing a number of bike trekkers as he came in through the outskirts of Farmington. [The biker's route started from Sunday River heading east, but then looped around the center of Farmington to avoid traffic and approached the Farmington Fair Grounds heading west.]

When he was overtaking riders riding two abreast, as many were, Mr. Withey said, "I had to blow my air horn continuously to let them know I was passing."

He had slowed down as well, he said, in part because another biker had shot out into his path shortly before Jeffery did.

But even though he was anticipating trouble, Mr. Withey's only option when it came was to swing wide and hard, tipping his rig—which suffered extensive damage—and spilling his load of wood chips.

Given his choice, Mr. Withey said, "I prefer to drive at night—fewer things like this can happen."

Peter King, of the Maine Lung Association, said that bumps, bruises and "road rash" are not uncommon on the trek. In fact, one girl had fallen off her bike between Newry and Rumford.

But all 422 trekkers who started out this year finished the 180-mile, three-day trip, he said, including young Jeffery, who skipped the second day but returned to finish the third.

Mr. King said that the trekkers raised approximately $175,000 in pledges for the Lung Association.

Letters meant for publication in The Citizen's paper should be in the Citizen office by Monday noon.

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

I am writing on the subject of Telstar High School's graduation policy. It is understood by the students and their parents that attendance is required at marching practice or they would not be able to participate in the graduation exercises. My sister, Jenny Milton, did not attend all of these practices partly due to her best friend and classmate, Marsha Hutchins, being hospitalized as a result of a very severe car accident.

My parents talked to the principal, Mr. Davis, on the subject Thursday, the day before graduation. They asked what would happen if Jenny showed up at graduation expecting to march with her class. They were told that she could march but she would have to be at the end of the procession. Jenny was told this, along with many friends and relatives who were planning to attend graduation.

Upon arriving to graduation, Jenny was talked to by Mr. Davis about the policies of graduation and he said that she could march with her classmates. As the graduates were lining up to proceed into the gym, Mr. Davis took Jenny aside and told her that she could not march because her friends and classmates didn't think it was fair for her to march when she didn't practice with the rest of them. I doubt that anyone in her class was thinking that let alone saying anything about it, because everyone knows how much Marsha means to Jenny. Also, from my own experience of graduation last year, the seniors were no doubt having feelings of happiness, excitement and nervousness, not who should march and who shouldn't.

Should the principal jump and take action whenever a student speaks, if that was the case? I don't think Mr. Davis, or anyone, could have the right to tell a student in five minutes that they could graduate and five minutes later tell them something different. It upset Jenny very badly. Her feelings were a combination of angry, depressed, embarrassed, [and] finally very mad that it happened.

My parents talked to Mr. Davis ahead of time, specifically so that this would not happen. It would have been much easier on everyone if the decision was made sooner, not a few minutes before graduation. Many friends and relatives traveled long distances and many feelings were hurt due to this last-minute change.

I suggest that in the future Telstar alter their policy on graduation. If someone goes through four years of high school and doesn't meet every requirement of their senior year, then just let them march with their friends and classmates and give them an unsigned diploma. High school graduation is an important event in a person's life and it should be enjoyed by those who go to school with. Something will always come up at graduation time for at least one person, whether it is the question of grades, family matters or unfortunate accidents, and Telstar High School has to find a way to deal with it better.

Principal Ted Davis says he had informed all parents of graduation. In mid-May that participation in all pre-graduation activities was mandatory for the seniors to take part in graduation exercises. He pointed out that Jenny did receive her diploma by mail.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Gould Academy Environmental Awareness Committee and the Bethel Solid Waste Committee, I would like to thank all those who have been separating the newspaper in their mail at the post office for recycling. However, this program has run into problems.

The first, and most crucial, is that some people have been leaving their daily papers at the post office. This is completely unacceptable to the postal department and to those of us who put in many hours transferring and bundling the flyers that come in the mail. I would like flyers that come in the mail to be recycled to remind people that there are already two locations for the deposit of bundled newspapers—the landfill and the white shed at the corner of Elm and Summer streets. The post office was never intended to become an additional depository.

The second problem we are experiencing with the flyer collections is that of labor. With Gould Academy recessed for the summer, very few of us are left to handle a great deal of paper. Anyone in the community who would like to help out by donating a few hours of time to the recycling effort can call me at 824-2365. Any help will be very much appreciated.

Glass containers are also being recycled in Bethel. Clean containers, separated by color, with all metal caps and rings removed, can be deposited in the appropriate barrels at the landfill. Again, I would like to thank all those who are already making the effort to recycle and to urge others to begin. Recycling saves resources, energy, and valuable landfill space.

Robin Lee

To the Editor:

Although I don't own any land on the north side of the Androscoggin River, I would like to comment on Mr. Wight's statement (Citizen June 14) concerning the value of land on the river. I disagree with him, because last year I had several requests to sell land abutting the Middle Intervale Road with a right-of-way to the river. The offers were more because they could have had this right-of-way to the river.

Landowners should make sure this does not turn into another Audubon Society affair and not want you to cut any trees or farm 50 to 100 feet from this easement.

I've always allowed people to ski and snowmobile on my land and plan to continue in the future. Before I give an easement such as this I would do a lot of thinking.

THE SCOREBOARD TELLS IT ALL, as ace Rebel righthander Gary Williamson throws his last pitch in a Telstar uniform. The senior hurler allowed only four hits and three walks, while striking out 12, in Telstar's 6-2 Class C state championship victory over George Stevens. Actually, the scoreboard doesn't tell it all quite right: the error column is wrong—the Rebels played error-free ball.

Champs

stroked a ground ball to deep short and beat out the throw to first on what would have been an inning-ending double play. That was all the lead Williamson—who allowed only one base runner in the last three innings—would need.

But there was one scary moment—at least for fans who also root for the Boston Red Sox. In their half of the seventh the Rebels added three insurance runs. In the bottom of the inning—shades of a recent World Series—with two George Stevens batters down and the championship one out away, the batter, George Stevens' lead-off hitter, slapped what should have been a routine ground ball toward first.

But don't worry, fans, senior veteran John Eliot—who apparently never attended Bill Buckner baseball camp—wasn't about to choke. He turned the play as coolly as the Rebels have made them all through the playoffs.

Suddenly, that championship season is history, and the 1989 Rebel baseball team joined their 1974 and 1979 predecessors as state champs.

Last year, following the disappointing championship loss to Madawaska, Coach Brown predicted his juniors had what it would take to go all the way in their senior year.

"So far they've been able to elevate themselves to that next level each year," he said then. "Next year, with a little bit of luck, they'll be ready to take that last step."

Saturday, despite the pressure of knowing this was their last shot, they did just that.

PLANNING BOARD AGENDA
The Bethel Planning Board, next Wednesday night, will look at site plan applications for the proposed sand and gravel pit in West Bethel, a proposed commercial venture on Rte. 2, West Bethel, and a proposed restaurant/deli at the former Edalweis Country Store, on Main Street, Bethel.

The board will also get its first look at a sketch plan for continued commercial use of the former Unicorn Flower Shop building, on Bridge Street.

DEADLINES
News items for the paper must be in The Citizen office by the following deadlines:

China

Washington, D.C., but is beamed from broadcast towers in the Philippines. The Chinese jam a frequency by broadcasting a signal on top of it. However, Mr. Carlson said, the VOA has increased the number of frequencies it broadcasts on (from five originally to a current level of 12) and the Chinese have been unable to jam them all.

Moreover, he said, since China's jamming stations are in south China, they are unable to disturb the powerful VOA signals reaching other parts of the country. Additionally, the VOA beams a signal into China from a transmitter at Kavak, Greece, and will soon begin transmitting into China from Chiang Mai, Thailand.

Also, since the Chinese only jam short wave broadcasts, a medium wave broadcast being beamed from the Philippines gets to Chinese listeners unimpeded, Mr. Carlson said.

In addition to the chess game the VOA director general plays with the Chinese government on getting his signals to his Chinese listeners, there is also the matter of collecting and disseminating the news.

Since events in China's capital began to boil, last month, the VOA increased the number of hours devoted to its Mandarin service. (Mandarin is the official language of China.) The hours were increased to 11½ hours per day, whereas Mandarin programs had originally been on the air for only eight hours a day. (The VOA also broadcasts 1½ hours a day in Cantonese, the language of much of south China, and 2½ hours a day in English.)

Not only did the number of hours of Chinese broadcasts increase, but the amount of news was also boosted. Whereas the broadcasts in Chinese had featured Chinese music and even American country music, all entertainment was replaced by news and commentary. "It didn't make sense to us to bring music shows into China while the preoccupation of the Chinese was what was going on in Tiananmen Square," Mr. Carlson said.

Some of material on the programs was gathered by VOA staffers, some was taken from the Associated Press and some from the French news service, Agence France Presse.

Last week, the Chinese government kicked out the VOA's Al Pessin and an Associated Press correspondent. Mr. Pessin—who is fluent in Chinese and had been in China for two years—is now reporting on the Chinese situation from Hong Kong, according to the director general.

Losing him as a resident correspondent in Beijing was a significant blow to the VOA. "He has the contextual feel rates. The interest rate on the loan taken out in November was 18 percent—at a time when the prime rate was 10 percent. Mr. Mero also pointed to the difficulty of rebuilding the store's reputation and goodwill after the departure of Mr. Praigg.

The strongest thing the Marketplace had going for it, he said, was the people who worked there. "They're super," he said. "You couldn't ask for better people."

which non-Chinese speakers do not have," Mr. Carlson said.

Nevertheless, the VOA is making do, using a combination of stringers inside the country and special correspondents that are shuttled in and out of the country. Mr. Carlson did not want to go into detail on how many people are collecting news for the VOA from China at any given time.

The reporters can send their materials out of the country on cassette or call up VOA headquarters in Washington, D.C., where the programming is put together. Mr. Carlson said the phone system is still quite open, although Chinese telephone operators have been told to not put through calls from Chinese residents to the VOA office in Beijing. He said prior to the hard-line crackdown, operators had been helping people from the outlying provinces call VOA with news from their areas. "You have to go to a lot of trouble if you're Chinese and you want to make a [long-distance] phone call," he said. For one thing, there won't be a phone in most houses, so you have to wait in line at a public phone. And then everything you say on the phone will be overheard.

Mr. Carlson, who has been to China twice—most recently in the fall of 1987—said he has close friends in Chinese broadcasting—the Chinese government's Radio Beijing. Just last week the director of Radio Beijing had been to his home for dinner. He said some of the broadcasters he and his staff know were believed killed in Tiananmen Square the night of the massacre.

He is disappointed that the Chinese government has resorted to yoking the press to propagandize the people. "The media is being employed to pacify people... rather than to elucidate," he said.

Budget

was for trees. The selectmen had requested $1,700 for the more trees to be planted on Main Street; the Budget Committee had recommended no additional monies for shade trees.

Budget Committee Chairman Arnel Brown told the voters, "We thought we'd wait and see if the new trees on Main Street could survive this year before we put in another $1,700."

Fred Burk, of the Beautification Committee, told the voters that the 12 trees put into the sidewalk between the Casco Bank and the IGA this week should survive well despite the poor soil and the exposure to salt in the winter.

But most voters were unimpressed. "Bethel has done a lot of stupid things in the past, but I think they've outdone themselves by planting these trees," said John Greenleaf. Of the 12 trees planted, six were paid for by the Town; six were paid for by Bethel Furniture Stock.

The motion to appropriate another $1,700 for more trees was defeated, 42-33. A second attempt, to raise just $1,000 for new trees was also defeated.

The other spending article turned down by voters was a proposed appropriation of $8,000 for a new one-way pylon to go on the dump truck. The Board of Selectmen wanted it; the Budget Committee wanted the Highway Department to get along with its old pylon. The voters, by a 35-28 margin, said they didn't want to spend the money.

But on the big ticket item—the dump truck itself—voters easily approved the $87,000 asked for by the selectmen for the truck. There was not even any discussion, though some Budget Committee members voted against the motion.

The selectmen then asked for no money this year for the fire truck fund, but Harry Faulkner moved to raise and appropriate $15,000 for a replacement truck—which firefighters said would cost in the neighborhood of $180,000. "I think it's a disgrace that the town lacks adequate fire trucks," Mr. Faulkner said. The selectmen had also asked for no money this year for a replacement police cruiser, but voters readily kicked in $5,000 for the replacement fund.

Deborah Michaud was concerned that the monies being set aside for replacement equipment would not be nearly enough to keep the police and fire departments going. "We're not putting enough aside," she said. "I think you're looking at deferred disaster."

Voters were also not hesitant in spending money on health and human services. The selectmen and budgeters had recommended $1,889 for Androscoggin Home Health—level funded from this year. But when Natalie Timberlake moved to allocate $2,100—which had been her agency's original request to the selectmen—voters easily approved that amount.

And with only a few "no" votes, Town Meeting overrode the opposition of the Budget Committee and approved $250 for WCB Channel 10. Voters also added the Child Health Center, in Norway, to the list of agencies the town supports, with a grant of $400.

The biggest single appropriation of the night, $114,500 for the landfill, produced only some cursory discussion.

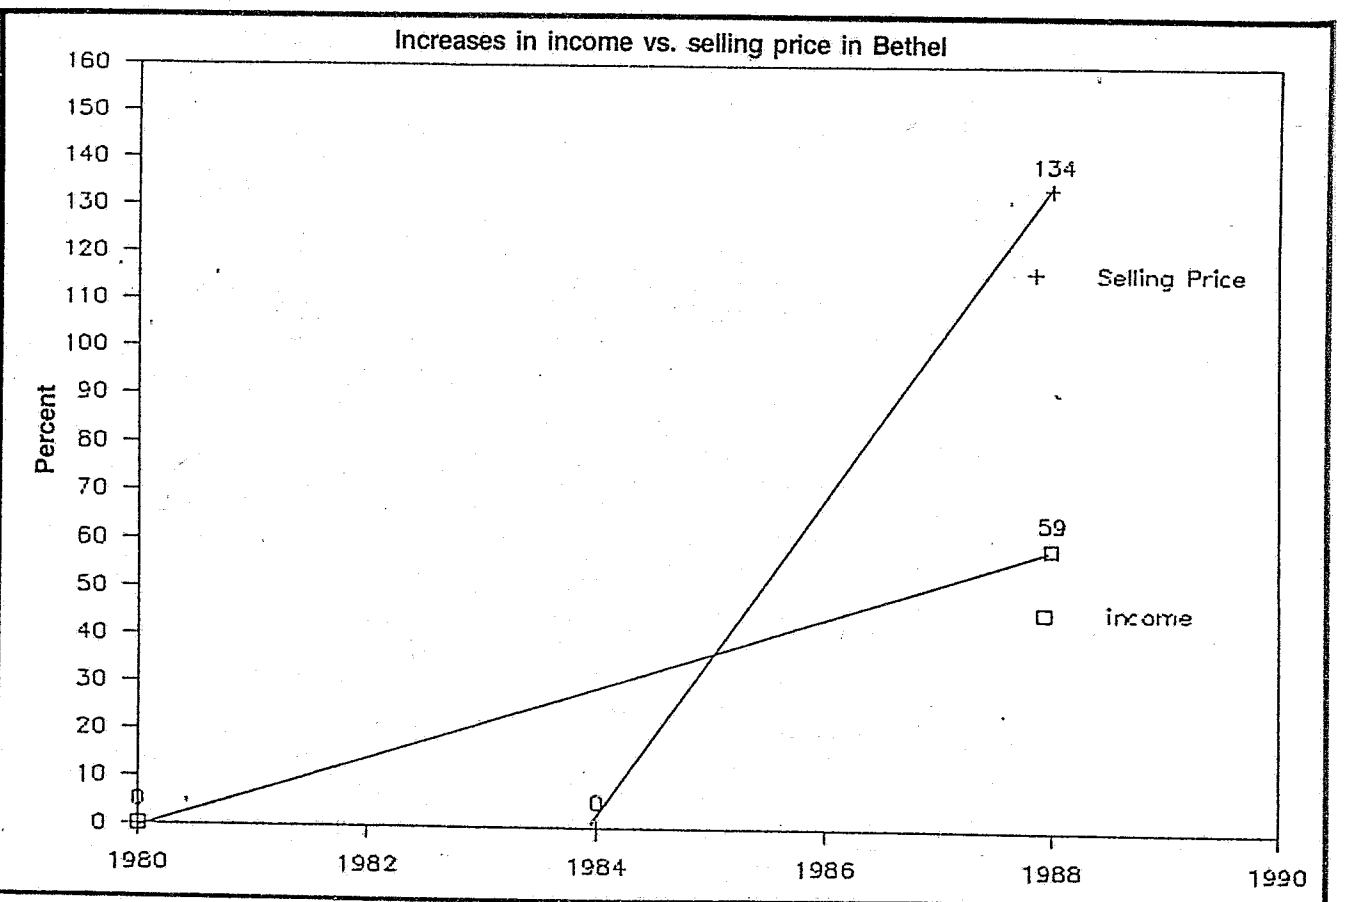

After the money articles had been disposed of, Town Meeting got bogged down in a hassle on parliamentary procedure. As happens almost every time Town Meeting comes into session, a question on an amendment to a motion led the moderator (Bill Cousins) to become a negotiator between opposing forces.

Adding to the confusion was an opinion from the selectmen and the town manager that the action proposed by the amendment was itself not legal.

What finally emerged, after the longest discussion of the evening, was approval of a motion to authorize the selectmen to carry forward unexpended balances in the fire and ambulance accounts, as well as in such other accounts that the selectmen decided should be carried forward.

Selectwoman Pat Doon, Town Manager Rodney Lynch and Bookkeeper Neta Littlefield all explained that state auditors do not allow the Town to carry forward unexpended balances unless they will be spent on projects already approved. For example, an unexpended balance in the Highway Department's account could be carried forward if work on the sidewalks had already started and was simply not yet completed.

On the other hand, unexpended monies in a supplies account could not be carried forward past the end of the fiscal year in which the monies were meant to be spent. Such unexpended balances would lapse to surplus.

Housing

prices in 1980 could not be calculated, the committee reported that the average sale price of a home in Bethel jumped from $37,150, in 1984, to $88,944, in 1988—an increase of 104 percent.

Projecting current trends into the future, the committee calculated that the slow growth in new construction, plus the rapid growth in numbers of households, would create an ever-widening gap between supply and demand.

The members of the Affordable Housing Committee are: Ken Bohr, Marcia Demison (co-chair), Montique Rolfe, Linda Saunders (co-chair), Laurie Vegt-Barter, Muriel Whitney, plus ad hoc members Mary Stone and Maryanne Wheeler. The committee had the assistance of Valerie Lamont, of the University of Southern Maine.

Town Manager Lynch said the surplus account could itself be used to fund emergency expenditures, such as the recent emergency repairs made to the fire trucks. But voters preferred to force the selectmen to keep any surplus right in the fire and ambulance accounts rather than transferring those unexpended balances to the surplus account. Voters said that if such a procedure were deemed illegal by the state auditors, the selectmen would then be free to disregard that portion of the motion.

An expected battle on a citizen-sponsored article on whether to change the name of the Bethel airport from Col. Dyke Field to something else never materialized. A motion by Bob Saunderson to keep the name Col. Dyke Field passed unanimously without discussion.

Expected discussion on adding a third full-time police officer also did not materialize and Town Meeting approved the concept, and the cost, without discussion—but with a few hands raised in opposition. The fiscal 1990 police budget will be nearly $78,000, up nearly $31,000 from the current year's budget.

Town Meeting also approved, without discussion, changes to two local ordinances and changes in the retirement benefits for Town employees.

Changes to the Site Plan Review Ordinance will nullify, in August, any unused building permits acquired prior to the enactment of the ordinance.

The meeting began at 7 p.m. and adjourned at 10:15 p.m.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary will meet Tuesday, June 27, at 6:30 p.m., at the fire station.

The annual Strawberry Festival of the Locke Mills Union Church will be held July 1, 10 a.m.-3 p.m., at the church. Chairing the festival are Irene Mills, Eva Twitcheil and Sylvia Dunham. They have planned to have a trinket and treasure table, a food table, and a berry table, besides the usual strawberry goodies—and who knows what they may come up with between now and then. Plan to go and see.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Smith and Vera Cross attended the county council of the American Legion, in Rumford, Tuesday evening.

Charlotte Cole and Helen Chase went shopping Tuesday in Norway and then visited Charlotte's cousin, Vi Churchill, and others at the Market Square Health Facility in South Paris.

Lillian Herrick, Kathleen McAllister, Olive Risko and Noreen Russo attended the department convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, in Bar Harbor, as delegates from the Jackson-Silver Post and Unit, this past Friday and Saturday.

Charlotte Cole and Helen Chase were in Dixfield, Thursday, where Charlotte entertained at the Dixfield Health Care Center and then attended a three point Grange meeting at M. Sugarloaf Grange, in Dixfield. Helen joined her for the supper and entertainment. There were about 87 in attendance.

Stacy and Josh Swan spent from Wednesday noon to Friday noon visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swan, Jr.

Bertha Flanders says she's been busy attending Eastern Star meetings all over the place, including, Elavale and Mechanic Falls. I plan to attend the Historical Society booster club supper here at the Locke Mills Town Hall this (Sat. June 17) evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noyes of Wilton were expected Sunday at the home of Charlotte Cole, where they planned to have dinner and then go with Charlotte to the Bridgton nursing home to see Arlene Stiles, who is celebrating her birthday Monday.

Among those attending the Billy Graham video showing of "Cry From the Mountain" Wednesday at John and Alan Ludlow's, in East Bethel, were Alan Larsen, John and Lorraine Mills, Tim and Jean Cormier, Jimmie and Moriah, Dot and Roger Chopping and John and Alta and two of their children, Jackie and Julie.

Your correspondent, along with husband, John played hockey from dispatching and other concerns last Saturday and took off. We went to the Oxford Plaza to do some shopping, picked up lunch at a local store and ate it at the Twin Bridges picnic area, continued on through Bridgton to Denmark, which we had never seen, and Hiram where some of my people lived long ago. I was tempted to stop to explore a local cemetery to see if I had ancestors buried there but didn't. I found out later that they are all buried at West Baldwin, so I would have had a fruitless search. We went on from Hiram through to Fryeburg to see my dad, but he wasn't there so we went to North Conway and went to a sale at L.L. Bean's. I stopped in to say "Hi" to Joan Rawson, who works in the men's department at Penney's there. She said she was going to pick up her dog at my dad's at 6, so we picked up some hamburger makings and went back to Fryeburg, did find Dad at home, and had supper with him. John got beaten at three games of cribbage while I did dishes. On our return home we went back through Sweden, another place we wanted to see, and got home rather tired, around 11. It was fun to see some of Maine that is so near and yet we'd never seen. Next time "If the Lord's willing and the creek don't rise" we are going to West Baldwin to check out those cemeteries.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

The past week was a rainy one. It was also cold and windy at times. This is not good gardening weather. I've run the furnace every morning because of the cold, damp weather.

Esther Davis attended her grandson's graduation. Neil Tibbetts was graduated from Oxford High School Saturday afternoon in an outdoor program. I believe it was a 7 p.m. affair.

Olive Davis attended her niece, Daphne Houven's graduation, at Bridgton Saturday at 4 p.m. This was held in the high school gym. There were around 149 in this graduating class.

Jim and Kris Miclon have work moving today, trying to catch up with grass on the lawns. We have so much rain the grass almost got ahead of us. It looks real nice now.

Alisha Miclon invited me to go to their musical program at Bryson School Thursday night. This was their last one to be held. Kristina, Amanda, Alisha and I saw a baby bear when we came home. It crossed the road in front of the car.

Esther Davis was out Monday helping a group collect fir branches to fix for the fir pillows the church at West Paris always makes for the sale they have in the summer. Tuesday they met at Lettie Brooks' farm on Curtis Hill to prepare the fir for pillows. They have been making pillow slips for quite awhile, ready to fill when the fir is ready to use.

Mrs. Kristina Miclon and Mrs. Rosalie Poland were graduated from the adult class at Telstar High School last week. Mr. and Mrs. James Miclon and family attended a dinner party at Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miclon at Buckfield Sunday. This was in honor of Alisha, who became seven years old June 12.

How are your gardens growing? The weather isn't favoring corn I see. It is supposed to be up to your knees by July 4. If we don't have some warm weather before then, mine might be to your ankles.

James Miclon has rabbits of all sizes and colors for sale. If any one is interested, get in touch with them in South Woodstock.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club met Tuesday, June 20, for the regular weekly breakfast meeting at The Bethel Inn.

The guest speaker was Elaine Suddeth, from Outward Bound's STEP program.

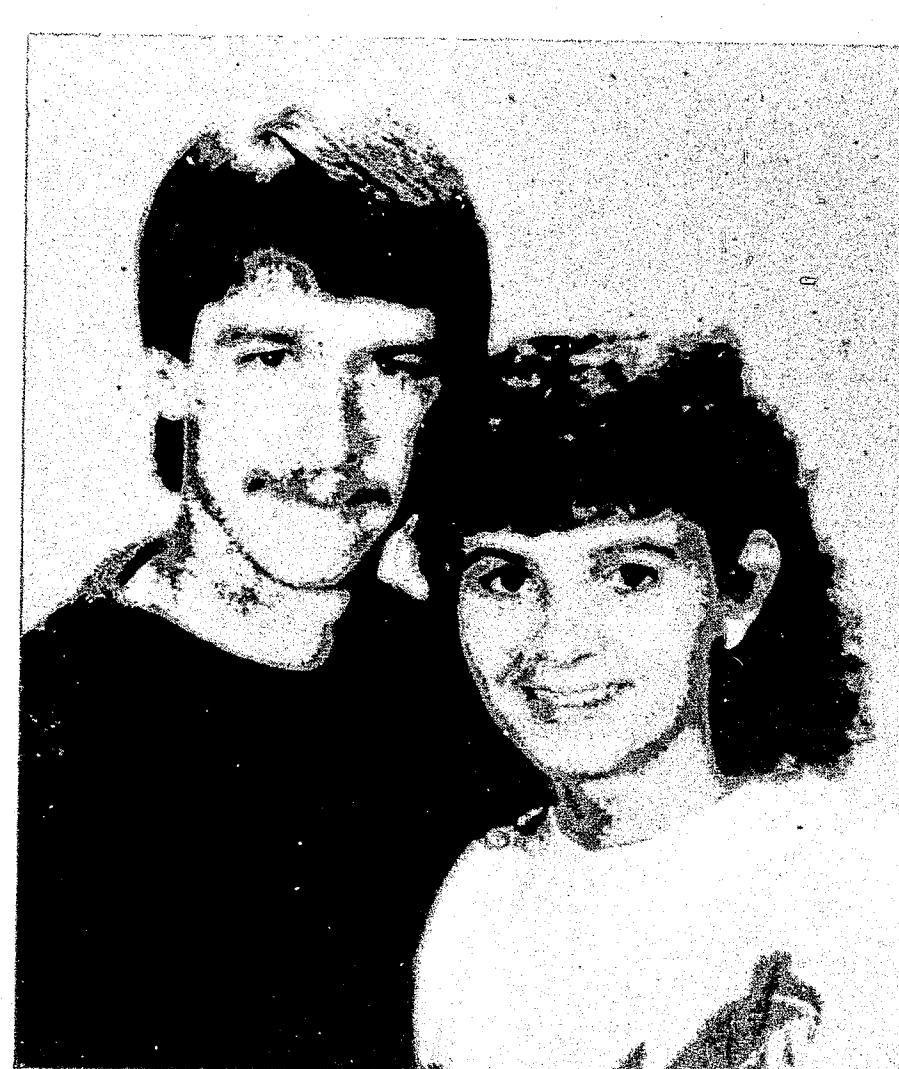

She told of the 28-day courses they run for 14-year-olds in conjunction with the Maine Department of Corrections. These youths are on probation or currently serving time at the Maine Youth Center. The goal of the course is to give them time to think, to change them through hiking, canoeing, rock climbing group activities in order to make them a better part of a community.

During the 28 days they are asked to work together with the group on all aspects of everyday life (cooking, cleaning up, making camp) as well as interacting with one another in a positive way. They are given the opportunity to do a 3-day solo and are also offered a 1-day career-counseling session. The program has been very successful in helping to make these youths into good citizens.

The program was most informative. Next week's meeting will be the 15th anniversary celebration, a dinner at The Bethel Inn. Contact Romeo Baker to make reservations.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Many Bible passages offer comfort for our times of trouble and grief. Many others bear a seemingly harsh message. Obedience to God is not easy and may be very painful. Luke 9:57-62 is one of these latter kind.

In this passage, three men who claim to be ready to follow Jesus hear him name some of what discipleship will mean: from society, the homelessness of rejection; and from themselves, a radical commitment that brooks no distractions and sees even family obligations in a new light.

Jesus, of course, puts it more graphically: "The Son of Man has no place to lay his head." "Let the dead bury their own dead," and "No one who puts his hand to the plow and looks back is fit for service in the kingdom of God."

All our choices have consequences, and becoming a Christian is no different. Jesus says, "I'm going to Jerusalem, where a cross awaits me. If you want to follow me, this is what you can expect, too. Indeed, following me requires that you shoulder your cross every day. Luke 9:23.

Scott Peck begins The Road Less Traveled saying, "Life is difficult." There is no way to avoid life's problems and pains, he says, but there are disciplines for dealing with them. And the will to use

Society publishing book on Bethel cemeteries

Stanley R. Howe, director of the Bethel Historical Society, announced this week that the Society will soon publish a book on Bethel cemeteries, recording inscriptions on Bethel gravestones from the earliest days through 1988.

A project of more than a year in the making, the data for this volume was compiled by Mildred Jackson and Agnes Haines and includes an interpretive overview by Dr. Howe.

The 125-page paperback will be printed on acid-free paper and will feature an alphabetical listing of all known graves in Bethel's 15 public and private cemeteries. The book will be of particular interest to genealogists and other researchers, as well as collectors of materials relating to western Maine.

"It is important that we record this information since vandals and air pollution are taking a heavy toll of gravestones," Dr. Howe said. "Many stones will either be missing or illegible in another generation," he noted sadly. "We felt we must do our best in recording all we could."

This publication is the latest in a long list produced by the Bethel Historical Society, which was founded in 1960 and incorporated in 1971 as a non-profit, tax-exempt corporation dedicated to preserving and interpreting the local past. Since 1974, the Society's headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House, has been a center of research and heritage activities for western Maine. With a membership exceeding 600, the Society also sponsors special events, monthly meetings, exhibits, films, lectures and school programs.

Those wishing further information should call the Society, at 207-824-2908, or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, 04217.

12 die on Maine roads

The Bureau of Safety reports that 12 people died in Maine highway crashes in May—six less than the five-year average for the month (18).

Three of the victims were motorcyclists; only one was wearing a helmet. Richard E. Perkins, director of the Bureau of Safety, advocates the use of helmets for all cyclists and their passengers. "Research shows that helmets reduce injuries and save lives," said Perkins. "The likelihood of injury doubles when a motorcyclist does not wear a helmet and non-helmeted riders are three times as likely to suffer fatal injuries in a crash."

The report further indicated that four of the fatalities were alcohol-related, and only one of the nine people who died in passenger vehicles was reported to be wearing a safety belt.

The 1989 fatality count through May stands at 77, eight less than last year

OXFORD POMONA GRANGE

Frederick Robie Grange, of Otisfield, hosted Oxford Pomona Grange on June 6 and served a bountiful supper preceding the meeting.

Raymond Tripp Jr., past Pomona Master, served as master for the evening. Honored guests were Ruby Whitney, State Grange C.W.A., and her husband, Clyde.

Get well cards were signed for Glenn Chute, Howard Miller, Dot Buck, Richard Peit and Maxine Roak. C.W.A. chairman, Lil Swallow, reminded members of the foodless food sale to benefit Grange Cottage at the Hinkley School. Members should have their donations to the Pomona secretary by the June 27 meeting. Reports were given by the Scholarship Committee and the Deaf Activities Committee.

There were 42 present, with Paris Grange receiving the attendance banner.

A donation was sent to the OHSIS Project Graduation. A donation to the State Grange Deaf Activities Committee will be made by the C.W.A.

Olive Davis and Shirley Foster thanked Grange for remembering them with cards and prayers.

A corporation meeting of Oxford Pomona Grange will be held on June 27 following the regular Pomona meeting. Officers of the corporation will be elected at that time.

Chaplain Marian Bennett conducted an impressive Memorial Service in memory of Sam Soucy, Oxford Grange; George Allen, Norway; Lawrence Lord, Crooked River; Marguerite Marcotte, West Paris; Winola Brown, Waterford; and Eugene Buswell, Bear River. Taking part were the chaplain, Elizabeth Foster, Pomona; Shirley Foster, Flora; Gail Butterfield, secretary; Bertha Benoit, soloist; and Dot Canwell, pianist.

Nat Green, Frederick Robie Grange, gave the address of welcome and Raymond Tripp the response. Winners of the mystery packages were Beatrice Wyman, Lakeside Grange, an honorary member of Pomona.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Frederick Robie Grange for hosting us.

Sister Ruby Whitney spoke about the dress revue and tea.

The next Pomona meeting will be June 27, at Bear River Grange, Newry, with a 6:30 supper. This will be election of officers and all members are urged to attend. There will be no July meeting.

Aug. 1 will be Pink Sash Night at West Paris Grange Hall, with a 6:30 supper.

Gillies law firm takes on associate

Gordon Gillies, attorney at law, announced this week that Cheryl Sessions Bownes has joined his law firm as an associate.

Ms. Bownes, who is originally from the Bethel area, is the daughter of Warren Nada Sessions, formerly of Locke Mills. She is returning home to practice law after having attended Franklin Pierce Law Center, in Concord, N.H., and practicing for almost four years in the Laconia, N.H. area.

Ms. Bownes has been a member in good standing of the New Hampshire Bar Association since 1985 and joined the Maine Bar this past April. She is experienced in the areas of real estate, probate, business, commercial transactions, collections, and bankruptcy law, as well as other areas of civil practice. She will be engaging in all areas of the firm's practice.

"I was very pleased to have someone originally from this area respond to my ad [for an associate]," attorney Gillies said. "I wanted someone who would fit in and really appreciate and understand the area and its people. Not only is Cheryl familiar with the area, but she brings with her the kind of legal experience and enthusiasm that I think will be an asset to the firm."

Ms. Bownes said, "I am very pleased that Gordon has given me the opportunity to practice with him. I've always wanted to return to practice in my home town. I've been seeing a lot of familiar faces and I'm anxious to catch up on old times and to get to know the new people in town as well. I hope that people who know me or my family will feel comfortable to give me a call if they want to discuss a legal issue and that people who don't know me will come to have the same trust and confidence in me and my work as they have in Gordon over the years."

Walk-ins Welcomed

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

The Dr. Moses Mason House Museum will open for its 16th season on Saturday, July 1, beginning at 1 p.m. Volunteer guides to staff the museum during July and August are needed once again. Anyone interested in learning something about life in Bethel during the 19th century is urged to volunteer, even as a substitute. Visitors come from all over the world so one never knows who will walk in and wish to tour Bethel's most historic house.

An orientation for new guides (and a refresher for others) will be held on Wednesday, June 28, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 2 p.m. Anyone wishing to volunteer is urged to attend. If that date is not convenient, please call the Society office at 824-2908, or Mrs. Judy Haskell, 824-2724.

Nathan Misserochi, a junior at Teller Regional High School, received the 1989 Dr. Moses Mason Award for his essay on the history of Andover High School. Each year the Society awards a certificate of commendation and a $100 savings bond to the high school student who submits what, in the opinion of the judges, best meets the guidelines of the award. The essay must be an original piece of work and based on primary sources. This year's judges were Rosalind R. Chapman, Margaret Joy Tibbets and Edmond J. Vachon.

Among the newest members of the Bethel Historical Society are Keith Bartlett, of Bethel; Vernon L. Ingraham, of Lower Waterford, Vt.; Alice Oylor, of San Clemente, Calif.; Jean Hersey, of Rumford Center; and Jeanette Clifford, of South Paris.

Recent contributors to the 1989 Endowment Campaign are Julia Brown, of Bethel, in memory of Lisa and Cecil Corrad, and Elizabeth Whitman, of Willow Grove, Penn., in memory of Dr. John Twaddle and Ashby Tibbets. Much appreciation is expressed to these donors for their generosity.

The Mason family gathering will be held at the Dr. Moses Mason House on Saturday, July 1, beginning at 10 a.m. Anyone with a Mason ancestor is cordially invited to attend. For further information, please call the Society office or Mrs. Elizabeth Mason Carter, 838-2343.

Upcoming events at the Dr. Moses Mason House include: July 1, Mason family gathering; July 22, Maine Old Cemetery Association summer meeting; Aug. 12-13, Sudbury Canada Days; Aug. 20, Maine Kimball family reunion.

Deaths: Heath R. Enright, Heather E. Enright.

Deaths: Lawrence L. Thurston.

20 Years Ago: E.M. Quinn was the featured speaker at the monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society, speaking on the Canadian National Railway history. The highlight at the Bethel Masonic Lodge was the burning of the mortgage for the building acquired in 1958. Past Master Edward Wheeler, serving as master of ceremonies, did the lighting. Among the 10 area boys to complete a six-week tractor safety program sponsored by the Oxford County Extension Service in cooperation with International Harvester and John Deere Farm Equipment companies were John Hicks and Robert Stevens of Bethel.

Births: Gavin B. Hutchinson, Michael Todd Chretien.

Deaths: Robert Lincoln, Archer C. Cole.

30 Years Ago: Swimming classes began for the season at Songo Pond. The Bethel Chamber of Commerce issued an accommodations directory to be distributed free by service stations, stores and restaurants in order to encourage tourists to stay in Bethel.

Deaths: Lindon W. Philbrook, Roxanne W. Downs, Inez M. Emery.

40 Years Ago: Members of the Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association visited Baldface Mountain in New Hampshire in search of topaz. A Guernsey cow owned by Paul Thurston set the state champion record for milk and butterfat produced over a 10-month period. Her production was 10,300 pounds of milk and 523 pounds of butterfat. The main office of the Grafton Lumber Company was moved to Bethel from Lisbon, N.H. Trees in Bethel Village were sprayed by airplane.

Deaths: David Paul Thurston, Mary J. Anderson.

Marriages: Carroll E. Bean and Beatrice Merrill, Richard F. Woodcock and Mary Gibbs, Stanley E. Davis and Margaret Ames.

50 Years Ago: Bethel Grammar School 8th Grade students went on a sightseeing trip to Augusta. Several directional signs were put up at the junction of Routes 2 and 36 at Newry Corner.

Judith Grover, tent 17, met for a regular meeting on June 12 at the Grange Hall. Fourteen members were present. It was voted to send a thank-you note and donation to Rev. Roland Lord for his help on memorial.

Sick members were reported on: Delia Jordan, Beatrice Farnum and Jean Reynolds. We gave a donation to Project Graduation. Thirty-five calls were reported. Next meeting is July 10 with a tasting party. Convention plans were discussed. Refreshments were served after the meeting by Sally and Beth Sawyer.

Wednesday night the Woodstock Firemen's Auxiliary met at the fire hall for a meeting, with guests from Locke Mills Auxiliary. Thirteen people attended. A meeting and social hour with shared ideas to make money and for meetings was held and enjoyed.

For all of you who knew Kenneth Sr. and John Bradley, owners of the former Lake Christopher Campground: word was received of the death of Kenneth A. Bradley Sr. on June 10 in Florida.

Beatrice Farnum is recovering from two fractured ribs.

Larry Whitman has returned home from Stephens Memorial Hospital.

A.E.S. SOFTBALL AWARDS

The following children were awarded pins for participating on the Andover Elementary School softball team for 1989:

By the State Highway Department. A call to the State Highway Department. A Tibbets' residence disrupted telephone service for about 25 circuits.

Marriages: Ralph O. Hood and Virginia Goodnow Little.

Deaths: William E. Chapman.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

This is a real country morning; there have been so few of them lately. I awoke to a cool breeze and the rustle of the leaves. On the lawn there were a thousand diamonds.

Yes, June has brought new life to the earth. Time has brought changes, but memories of long ago June, were tucked away in my mind, waiting for a day like this to enjoy the miracle of new life.

As I walked down the road the wind blew cool and tangled my hair. I looked at the flowers and tall ferns in the woods. By the ledge the water ran barefoot over the rocks and shadows swept the grass. Swallows were skimming the water and secretly I hoped they were catching the mosquitoes.

I stopped by the fence to look at the pond. There beside a rock I saw something move. At first it looked just like another rock, then it slid beneath the water with just a nose and two small searching eyes visible. To move, his house must go along, for it was attached to his back. He moved ever so slowly until he found a place to back in the sun. Mr. Turtle was having fun.

Birds chorused; each one singing his own theme song, yet blending into a symphony.

So an hour passed with Nature's pleasures to be savored again and again when tomorrow comes around.

Last Sunday was graduation day for Daniel Holt, son of Robert, so the family went to Windsor to share in some of the events. He was a graduate of Cony High School.

Rena Curtis has been in Lewiston this week to see her eye doctor and has been to Brunswick several times to visit her sister who has been ill for a long time. Dorothy Betts and I met with a group of friends on Wednesday for lunch and the afternoon at Dorothy Ross' home. There were 12 of us, which included Doris Hayes, of Gray, an old friend of the group.

Max Pulsifer is much better at this time and his daughter who came to be with her mother for a time has returned home.

Milton and Eleanor Inman have been at their cottage this week. It is nice to know that I again have a neighbor and to see their lights each evening.

David Holt is moving his bit by bit his new home in Norway. His family will move as soon as school is over.

I said that the little gray squirrels would, no doubt, grow and come to my bird feed. They have, with their mother training them to walk the wire and to hang by their feet while they take the seeds and eat. Two are well able to care for themselves but the third is the smallest and still follows its mother wherever she goes. They are interesting and pretty, but a nuisance.

CARD OF THANKS

The residents of Sudbury Village are enjoying the new flag presented by the American Legion and Auxiliary. It certainly looks pretty flying against the blue sky.

Thanks a lot.

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

My final column for the school year will consist mostly of awards and remembrances given this past week. On Friday a field day was held for Grades 2-4. Thursday was the field day for Kindergarten and 1st-graders. Wednesday was our annual awards assembly. The 3rd-graders and the school orchestra presented a musical program; 6th-graders were honored as a graduating class; awards were presented at all grade levels and our volunteers were honored and thanked for their many hours of service to us. Mr. Koch presented our volunteers with a very pretty double begonia plant and expressed the feelings of us all by saying that one of the reasons our school works so well for everyone is due, in large part, to our volunteers.

Volunteers honored were: Michelle Blake, Gretchen Hutchinson, Joanne Richards, Mary Orr, Rosalie Poland, Eileen Mowatt, Avis Hayes, Tanya Jones, Peggy Theofrastou, Joe Perham, Richard Perham and Ken Dembski. We hope we did not omit anyone, as we honestly appreciate all the hours that these people have donated to us.

Sixth-graders, who will now think of the Agnes Gray School as their alma mater are: Missy Andrews, Vignette Beauchene, Jessica Blake, Vanessa Bolbridge, Tony Bouchard, Heather Brown, Jason Cohen, David Coy, Jesse Eastman, Michelle Grubb, Jason Henderson, Maria Herrick, Kenny Hill, Erica Hussey, Bethany Hutchinson, Andrew Lesch, Alan Lovejoy, Chandra Mack, Tammy Montminy, Starr Mowatt, Milan Robinson, Raymond Smith, Christopher Tripp and Joseph Webb. Joe Webb, who has been in the hospital since April, was able to attend school two days this last week. He was glad to be back for a visit and we were all very happy to see him.

Receiving certificates for outstanding conduct—no tickets all year—were: Susan Herrick and Johanna Farrar, Grade 2; Amanda Herrick, Amy Hill, Faith Lovejoy, Grade 3; Katie Buehl, Emily Cole, Alicia Coolidge, Shannon Farris, Georgia Glasgow, Grade 4; Liberty Woodworth, Holly Hussey, Carrie Cole, Cameron Casteel and Katie Walton, Grade 5; Tara Rosenberg, Michelle Grubb, Maria Herrick and Starr Mowatt, Grade 6.

Perfect attendance for the whole school year is as follows: Kelly Walker, James Bradeen, Justin Bonney, Sonny Glasgow, Jaime Leonard, Melissa Skinner, Grade 2; Carrie Hammond, Grade 3; Georgia Glasgow, Grade 4; Jason Bradeen, Jon Haas, Grade 5; David Coy and Starr Mowatt, Grade 6.

Specialists presenting awards included our speech teacher, Mary Gamble, who presented three awards to students completing speech therapy. Congratulations to Amy Coffin, Misty Coffin and Jonathan Morgan.

Mr. Grigsby, our home/school counselor, chose Alan Lovejoy as this year's recipient of the Humanitarian award. This is given to the student who is secure in self-esteem and generous in showing kindness to fellow students. Mrs. Verkuille chose David Coy from her resource room.

Mr. Barker, our music teacher, chose the following as most improved in music: Johanna Farrar, Grade 2; Shawn Coffin, Grade 3; Emily Cole, Grade 4; Melissa Duchesneau, Grade 5; Maria Herrick, Grade 6. Mr. Lovelace chose outstanding athletes, both on the field and off: Johanne Farrar, Grade 2; Derek Leonard, Grade 3; Timothy Farrar, Grade 4; Liberty Woodworth, Grade 5; and Alan Lovejoy, Grade 6. Classroom teachers also selected students whom they felt had improved the most over the school year. Derek Emery, Grade 2; Danell Tripp, Grade 3; Angie Waterhouse and Jonathan Morgan, Grade 4; Cameron Casteel and Jon Haas, Grade 5; and Michelle Grubb, Grade 6.

Seventh-graders presented certificates and awards in their own classes. We would like to recognize as many children as possible for a wide range of school related activities.

This past Thursday morning found the Kindergarten and 1st-graders in the gymnasium participating in their field day. It was too rainy to try Perham Field. Three teams of the combined two grades participated in a variety of events. The yellow team won first place by earning the greatest number of points. Members were: Nathan Hutchinson, Bryan Martin, Misty Coffin, Charly Weiss, Lindsay Newell, Bradley Adkins, Michael Pitreinen, Casey Newell, Cameron Hall, Justin Jones, Libby Doughty, and Lauren Dembski. The blue team placed second: Walter Inman, Terry Weston, Matthew Blake, Jessica Skinner, Becky Chase, Holly Gravier, Toby Shattenberg, Stanley Hill, Juanita Toothaker, Tam Rosenburg, Crystal Russell. The red team was third: Eric Thorpe, Joel Martino, Monica Russell, Jessica Farrar, Heather Theofrastou, Devin Coffin, Jacob Mallory, Brandon Twichell, Aaron Brough, Kelly Walker, Vanessa Cole.

The 2nd and 3rd Grades held their field day last week in the same manner and included a pizza picnic for lunch. Their yellow team placed first: Vernon Inman, Melissa Skinner, Jamey Cole, Cameron Richards, Max Tikander, Jason Beaulieu, Tovah Everett, Amanda Herrick, Kim Kangas, Casey Mack and Charlie Bulker. The red team was second: Johanna Farrar, Candice Campbell, Mills Smith, Eli Beaulieu, Edwin Orr, Henry Bindbeutel, Erin Doughty, William Gravier, Amy Hill, Jessica McKinnon and Chip Wyman. The green team was third: Kylie Daniels, James Bradeen, Sonny Glasgow, Buddy West, Jaime Leonard, Shawn Coffin, Jeannine Dembski, Crystal Grubb, Leo Hatch, Derek Leonard, Audrey Tikander. Last but not least, was the blue team: Susan Herrick, Brandi West, Derek Emery, Justin Bonney, Eric Smith, Mandy Blake, Marc Cote, Matt Haas, Carrie Hammond, Faith Lovejoy and Danell Tripp.

The 4th, 5th and 6th Grades traveled to Hebron Academy for the annual field events. The only team event for us was the class relay race. The 6th Grade team of Christopher Tripp, Jesse Eastman, David Coy and Alan Lovejoy placed first. Right behind was the 5th Grade, with Jason Bradeen, Chester Beauchene, Arthur Campbell and Liberty Woodworth. In a not-too-distant third were the 4th-graders, Tim Farrar, Karen Yates, Scott Cote and Georgia Glasgow.

Other racing events were the 880 with 4th-grader Tim Farrar in first place; Chet Beauchene, second; and Jason Bradeen, third. In the 440, in first, second and third order were: Chet Beauchene, Jason Bradeen and Jon Haas. The 220: Christopher Tripp, Georgia Glasgow, Chet Beauchene, the 100: Chris Tripp, Chet Beauchene and Chip Wyman. Lloyd Ingraham, Portland, Ore., visited Amy and Roger Hanscom and other relatives in the area recently.

The Mothers Club had their annual dinner at Town and Country June 23. They also went shopping. All reported a good meal and a good time.

Gilberte Seeley, Betsy Clark and Louise Tetley were at Oxford Lanes, Rumford, bowling June 13. Gilberte was high on single and Louise high on triple.

Karlene Bachelder attended the graduation of her son, Brent Bachelder, from the Rhode Island School of Design, Providence, R.I., June 3. Brent received a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree in Sculpture.

The Mothers Club will not meet in July and August. Meetings will resume Sept. 11, at 7:30 p.m., at the municipal building, with the same officers as last year. They are: president, Cindy Moser; vice-president, Betsy Clark; secretary, Peggy Wight; treasurer, June Swan; and sunshine lady, Olive Anderson. There will be a tasting party at the September meeting.

Congratulations to the 1989 graduates of Telstar Regional High School. Mr. and Mrs. Verne Glover, Hollis, spent the weekend at their camp.

Brian Hanscom visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cummings, Bethel, Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cummings, Bethel, and Mary Thurston, Andover, called on Mr. and Mrs. Verne Glover at their camp last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wight attended the International Snowmobile Congress last week in Minneapolis, Minn.; 31 attended from Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Wight, Jason, Jenny and friend, from Old Town, and Mrs. Elizabeth Roberts, from Bridgton, visited Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wight recently.

The green team was third: Kylie Daniels, James Bradeen, Sonny Glasgow, Buddy West, Jaime Leonard, Shawn Coffin, Jeannine Dembski, Crystal Grubb, Leo Hatch, Derek Leonard, Audrey Tikander. Last but not least, was the blue team: Susan Herrick, Brandi West, Derek Emery, Justin Bonney, Eric Smith, Mandy Blake, Marc Cote, Matt Haas, Carrie Hammond, Faith Lovejoy and Danell Tripp.

The running broad jump found Chris Tripp in first, a tie for second, Katie Walton and Andrew Lesch and Tim Farrar and Alan Lovejoy in third. The standing broad jump was again, Chris Tripp, Arthur Campbell, Tony Bouchard.

The three-legged race was won by Liberty Woodworth and Willow Andrews. Erica Hussey and Tanya Rosenberg were second and there was a tie for third: Melissa Buchesneau and Holly Hussey, Katie Walton and Heather Edwards. This was followed by the sack race, which was won by Renee Pratt, Bethany Hutchinson and Chris Tripp.

I know I have left out a few names, but I really tried to get as many as I could. At our final Thursday morning teachers' meeting we said our goodbyes to our two teacher aides whose positions have been eliminated, Heidi Everett and Beverly Farrar will be greatly missed here in West Paris. We presented them with a small gift from the Paris Hill Powder shop and we hope they know that they will be truly missed.

News from Bethel Library

The library has submitted the following news:

There will be some special happenings at the Bethel Library this summer.

"Friday Flicks," 7-8 p.m., on Friday evenings beginning June 23 (excepting June 30, the Friday of July 4th weekend) is the popular film program aimed at young children. Some of this year's movies: "Wilbur's Story," "The Amazing Bone," "Anatole and the Piano," "Through the Mirror," "The Great Toy Robbery," "Corduroy," "Miss Nelson is Missing," "Nate the Great Goes Undercover," and "Curious George goes to the Hospital." In this age of VCRs, it is fun to see a movie on the big screen, so come and enjoy some quality children's movies at the library this summer.

Preschool story hour is over until school starts again in September; however, some special events for the preschool age group are planned. On June 28 there will be a "Teddy Bears' Picnic on the Library lawn, 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Children are asked to bring their favorite teddy bear and their lunch; bear stories, games and dessert will be provided. Very young children should bring a parent or a babysitter. The raindate will be June 29. Watch the newspaper for information on other upcoming events.

For school-age children, the summer reading program is underway. Forms were sent home in the elementary school TAP sheet and extras are available at the library desk. The librarians will be happy to assist children and parents who may need help choosing books for the reading program. Parents, this is a good way to keep your child interested in reading during the summer months, so please encourage your child's participation. There will be a party in the fall to celebrate the completion of the program.

Finally, the annual Molycock Day book sale will be taking place on the library lawn, so spend one of these rainy afternoons cleaning out bookshelves and bring your discards to the library. We are happy to receive mysteries, children's books, fiction, non-fiction—in short, just about anything except outdated textbooks. Molycock Day will also be the day for the grand drawing on the quilt raffle. If you haven't seen the green and peach cover's quilt displayed in the library, do come in and see what a $1 ticket could buy.

Two on Bates Dean's List

Following are Bates dean's list students from the local areas: Kurt R. Crandall '91, son of H. Richard and Carole Crandall, of Bethel; and Keith W. Wight '89, son of Stephen and Margaret Wight, of Newry, with a 4.0 quality point ratio.

Chet Beauchene, the 100: Chris Tripp, Chet Beauchene and Chip Wyman. The green team was third: Kylie Daniels, James Bradeen, Sonny Glasgow, Buddy West, Jaime Leonard, Shawn Coffin, Jeannine Dembski, Crystal Grubb, Leo Hatch, Derek Leonard, Audrey Tikander. West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Ann:
You should have been here on Friday night. We went to the high school to see the Children's Dance Theater of Bethel spinning their version of "The Wizard of Oz." It reminded us of the years of the Keefe Sisters and Miss Antoinette when you and then your Paula were tapping your way into the hearts of millions.

We were especially interested to see the performance because several of our young West Bethel area friends were appearing. And we weren't disappointed. Laura Pivin hopped to the music on her three-year-old "Bunny" legs, while Eva and Sarah Paul (granddaughters of Florio and Louis) delighted us as part of the "Munchkin Roundup." Martha Grover and Marcy LaVallee were graceful "Gumdrops" in pink polka-dots, followed by Tracey Gibbs as one of the "Back Minnet Flowers."

As the "Swing Tap" group took the stage, they were a full complement of local lasses: Kayce Gilbert, Becky LaVallee, Miranda Provencier, and Emily Parsons. When Erin Riddle and her friends finished the hot pink "Munchkins Rag," Lydia Grover joined the other "Poppies" as they rendered Dorothy's reticent of their redolence.

A senior member of the troupe, Becky Hanscom, added fuel to the "Flames" in a fiery ballet before taking terpsichorean flight in her own solo as "Princess Ozma." Clayton and Josephine Kendall clapped for their great-grandchildren, Andy Dennis as a fleetfoot skeleton, and little sister Erin as the show-stealing "Toto." It was a show worthy of kudos to "Miss Sue" and her cohorts, Nancy Grover (mother of Lydia and Martha) served as "Charge 1/Enfants" and stayed backstage even during the curtain calls. So we applaud her here and now. While we're on the subject of applause, we pass along a very large round from West Bethel, Gilead, and Mason parents to long-time bus driver Loretta Merrill. Loretta is apparently turning in her keys and her bus after many years of service to the local children. As she moves on to a new endeavor, she will be missed by parents like Barbara Lewis, who felt secure in the knowledge that Loretta was carefully transporting her children on the long ride to and from their schools.

The Senior Citizens took a ride to Locke Mills this week for their monthly meeting. A sizeable group traveled east from West Bethel to share the fellowship of friends and to "oh" and "aah" over a display of quilts, many of them from the collection of Ginny Keniston. Partaking in the potluck were Frances Bennett (Main Street), Frances Bennett (Pleasant Valley Road), Olive Head, Clara Rolfe, and Helen Saunders. Grace Morrill motored out from Mason, and Rose Taylor represented neighboring Gilead. While the seniors were in Locke Mills, a slightly younger contingent headed for Brunswick and the music theater.

Juanita Haines, Sheila Head, Arlene Lowell, and Linda Westleigh treated themselves to the matinee music of "Brigadoon" and topped off the trip with a waterfront dinner in Falmouth. That was the first of two memorable moments for Linda in the same week; she's the proud grandmother of Laura Pivin, the aforementioned rhythmic rabbit.

Interpersed with all this musical entertainment, there were serious gatherings and pre-nuptial gatherings. There was a town election following town meeting. West Bethel's Arthur Gilbert was sent back to his seat on the board for another three years. We appreciate his representation.

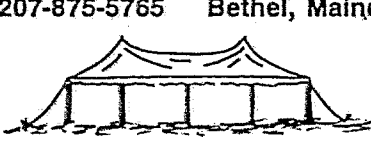

The monthly meeting of the West Bethel Union Church Chapel Aid took a unique twist this time. Following the business of the "annual" meeting, the re-election of the incumbent officers, and the planning for the upcoming summer, the members welcomed bride-to-be Ruthann Catter with a shower of gifts and goodies. She will marry fiance Ed Dragon in the church on July 8.

Among the well-wishers was Doris Brown, who was a bride herself in 1929. She and her husband Richard were married in Newry on June 27 and have spent the last 60 years on their hilltop site just outside West Bethel Village. They began their brood, daughters Sally (Bradley), Martha (Farrington) and Dixie Lea (Thayer), next to the hen house in the oldest house (at the time) in Bethel, circa 1770, and after 30 years, they put up a smaller abode on the same property. That has been their home for the last 30 years, and it boasts a picture window with constantly changing floral display (thanks in part to daughter Martha) that pleases the occupants and observant passersby. In answer to my request for Doris' recipe for matrimonial endurance, she quietly replied, "I asked for little, and received so much in return." Doris will also join the "Order of Octogenarians" on the upcoming anniversary day. There will be a quiet observation of the twin occasions this month, followed by a family celebration in August when all the daughters are able to gather. Congratulations in advance, Richard and Doris.

So, dear sister-in-law, that's the news from here. Your "baby" brother has been prolific in production, despite his lack of cranial hairs. You may climb the new back steps to the new porch, pass through the kitchen to the hall and gaze upon not one but two six-foot bookcases. I can finally unpack the cartons of books and free up the loft space, a prospect that I had relegated to "dum" until recently. Right now, I'm off to the laboratory to concoct a casserole. It's church supper time again. You're missing another great one.

Joe Cupo promises sunshine someday soon. Watch for it; we'll watch for you. Love, C. B.

By MIRIAM INMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Doughty and granddaughter Kathleen Robertson left Thursday night to spend the weekend with Drew and Cheryl Shall, Kirby and Caroline in Hightstown, N.J., returning on Monday.

Ann Proctor and Ivan, Jr. were in Stratton at their trailer for the weekend. Vicky Sanborn and Brant, North Conway, N.H., came on Saturday to the home of her parents Vernon and Miriam Inman. Miriam Inman spent several days the first of the week at the home of her daughter Vicky and Charles Sanborn and Brant.

Forward Fellowship will meet Monday evening, June 26 at the cottage of Sayward and Cynthia Lamb on North Pond. There will be a potluck supper at 6 p.m.

We must live on the edge of the wilderness. Last weekend two moose were on our back lawn, walked through the garden, and watched all of us in the neighborhood watching them. The next day a fox took its time crossing the edge of the lawn. Then on my way to work a couple of days later, I caught sight of a small doe standing beside the road watching me approach. Thank goodness the car behind me had backed off a bit because I slowed down immediately, and sure enough she pranced around in the middle of the road before going into a field on the opposite side.

Ernest Lee, Littleton, N.H., visited Joe and Muriel Gilbert recently. Start putting everything you've got into everything you do.

Tell Jeff that I'm studying the Bean books as they come. I've identified his ankles, I think... when am I going to see his face under a beeper's hat, or above a Chebeague Island sweater?

Pass out a few hugs to Anna and Frances, Winsor and Pepe. Put them all in the wagon and truck to the mountains one day. (Don't forget to press the opener button before exiting the garage.)

Joe Cupo promises sunshine someday soon. Watch for it; we'll watch for you.

Recent guests at Heritage Farm included Geo and Judy Fellows, B.J. and Cissy, of South Paris, Sidney Abbott and Susan Macalister, of E. Summer, Leroy and Emily Wells and family of Oregon, Ohio, and Ellen Bernier, of North Waterford.

The planning board met Monday night. The meeting was opened by Laurie French, selectman. Richard Lecomte reluctantly accepted the position of chairman and Connie Gagnon was suggested as secretary. She was absent and unable to accept or reject and it was not brought to a vote. It was decided to meet again Monday, June 19, with the board of selectmen if they are available for this date.

Much is written about overflowing dumps and concern about waste disposal. Many of us lived during a time when it was necessary to be frugal and now are part of a throwaway society and this has become a status symbol. Also many developments of discarding products faster than we can produce them are to increasingly legislated and forced more and more to reduce our waste, but can take steps now to delay government action. Each can consider his own rubbish and how he can reduce volume. It is inconvenient, can be cluttery to save and reuse, but may be the better of two undesirable. One minor suggestion is saving foam trays to use instead of paper plates. One picnic would make no impression on the tons of garbage but thousands of paper plates not used and trashed could. Rags and discarded clothing can be given to garages for another use and a further saving of paper. If many of us change our thinking along these lines, surely it will help postpone the time of becoming suffocated by our own rubbish.

Imagine wearing two shirts and a raincoat while finishing up some chilling tiling in the garden on Flag Day. More like April weather.

June 15 and it is raining again. June 5 I put clothes on the line and they weren't ready to take in until June 12. It did clear up June 4 and how the wind blew. Mary Smith was telling me that she saw 20 or 21 loons together on Songo this week.

June 10, our son Wilfred, and friend Dave, came to help us do some work around the house. Then Monday I went to Norway, to sister, Iva Holden, and we went to Rumford for shopping and dinner.

Frank and Ida Chapman's granddaughter, Allison Chapman, of Locke Mills, was one of the 1989 Telstar graduates. Her uncle and aunt, Howard and Mackie Chapman, gave her a graduation party at their camp in Bryant Pond. Allison's parents are Alan and Louise Chapman and her sister is Sarah Chapman. Also attending from our road, besides those mentioned, were Sammy Chapman and family. These and other guests enjoyed an outdoor cookout before going to graduation.

Ruth Eason, of Springfield, Vt., came to her camp on Songo and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gulbrandsen came June 9 to their camp on Moose Pond, Bridgton, and then attended their grandson Nathan Bean's graduation.

Joan Coolidge spent Monday night, June 12, with Sylvia Benson and Sharon Kimball, Waterford, came Tuesday to help Sylvia in her flower garden. Bradley Benson and Fern came June 11 for dinner and to do odd jobs.

Chuck Mason III and Kathy went June 8 to the Missionary Convention in South Portland of the Nazarene Church.

June 11, Seth and Jon Howe, sons of Bob and Linda, participated in the Methodist Church Sunday School production of Noah's Ark. Seth was a wolf and

Swim program set to begin next Monday

By CLARICE GIBSON

The Bethel area swim program will be held at Songo Pond from June 26 to July 21. Registrations will be accepted at the town office until June 22.

Individual scheduling will be done at the pond on Monday, June 26, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. An open swim area will be available for the children on that day.

A tentative schedule of classes is as follows: 9, Swimmer; 9:45, Intermediate; 10:30 Advanced Beginner; 11:15, Beginner; 12:30, Beginner; 1:15, Beginner; 1:15, Advanced Beginner; 2, Basic Rescue and Water Safety; 3, Tiny Tot.

KORHONEN RECEIVES HONORS

Scott P. Korhonen, of Bethel, was among 100 students to receive honors for the spring 1988 semester from Vermont Technical College, Randolph Center, Vt.

Korhonen, who was a senior, majored in agribusiness management technology. To earn honors, a student must earn a quality point average of between 3.0 and 3.4 while carrying at least 12 credits during the semester.

Jon was a cat on the ark. With the combinations of special affects, creative costumes and wonderful singing, the play was fun for all.

There are nine kittens in the Howe barn looking for a new home. If interested call Linda Howe, at 839-3745.

The Dan Hannon family are kept busy with the closing of the school year.

Debbie Seames and Dawn went June 9 to South Portland for the ordination of Pastor John Clayton.

Back from my nice vacation in Colorado and will try to get down to work again. It was a lovely trip and the sights I saw were too magnificent to describe. Still lots of snow on the mountains there, and when it rained down on the lower terrain, it moved in the mountains, so we could see there had been a new dusting of snow. We have mountains but they are babies beside the mountains out there. It seems that everywhere one goes, they must travel around and up a mountain and then down or on the other side to get anywhere. The buildings interested me as they would be up on a hillside and you couldn't see any road leading to them. We traveled into the Rocky Mountains National Park and saw a couple of elk on the way in. Took pictures of one of them and hope they come out good. All we saw of the other one was its rear end and that wasn't what I wanted to picture. Also saw a coyote one day while riding along, and brother Tom told of the antelope coming down into the fields across from where he lives and being able to see many of them. We saw a few through his field glasses and one night when riding through the fields we saw one who fled in a hurry. Lots of cattle and horses to see along the roads, and one place Tom told me they have a high fence and usually have an elk back there with their other stock.

It was a most interesting visit and one I won't forget in a hurry. When going into the Rocky Mountains National Park and getting up high, there were banks of snow beside the road that were three, four and even five feet high. It was quite something to see. Tom pointed out many ski areas and we went to Berthoud Pass and Loveland Basin and Pass. It was rather chilly in places, but we enjoyed it very much.

Got home yesterday, Tuesday, and was dog tired but so glad to have had the chance to go out to see a small part of the west. I would love to tour the western States with plenty of time and money. I have been an avid reader of Western stories so it would be of great interest to me to see more of it. Hope others have had as good a time on a vacation as I did. Never went anywhere like it before so it was quite something for me to have such a trip, thanks to my children and families.

I got home yesterday and Peggy left for Florida in the morning yesterday. She is visiting with her daughter and went especially to see her new great-granddaughter, Marissa Romanas, who was born on June 3. She had made her a pretty little Christening dress as well as other things. Hope she has a good time, and I am sure she will.

Peggy and Russell went to the graduation at Telstar last Friday as Peggy's grandson, James Merrill, was graduating.

Saturday night was a party for Jim so Peggy went to attend and then went to Oxford Grange to the dance. Russell had gone with other friends but they came home together.

I am so sorry to hear of the death of one of our dear friends, Jean Vancour, of Gorham, N.H. She had come to the dance with her husband William and they were in an accident on the way home. She had been through so much illness in the past few years and had kept a smile on

Through a 10-year-old's eyes

By ALEX GILLIES

My parents and my uncle are going on the Trek Across Maine for the American Lung Association. They have to raise over $20. My mother's donors were all women. I was her first donor. All my budget could afford was $3, but it was better than nothing.

By the way, my bird's name is Tweedy, not Sweetie. Gimme a break! I'm leaving for camp on June 27. I'm going for seven weeks. This is my third year, so I'm not nervous or anything. After five weeks there it's parents weekend. They get to bring your lunch. Since at camp you're not allowed junk food, parents weekend is junkfood galore. Obviously I won't have my column in the paper until I get back. But one more will be in the paper.

Oh, by the way, I'm getting a watch.

ROY ON DEAN'S LIST

Suzanne Roy, of Locke Mills, has been named to the Dean's List at Trinity College of Vermont, in Burlington, for the 1988 spring semester. Among the qualifications, a student must be enrolled full-time and achieve a B+ average.

her face regardless of what had happened. So it seems a shame to have a tragic accident like that take her from this earth. However, one never knows when the time will come for them to be called home and guess that was the way it was meant to be. She will be sadly missed as she was such a nice person and a beautiful singer. She had been to our Grange and performed many, many times and all appreciated her lovely voice raised in song. God bless you, Jean, for all the love you gave to others. I don't know how badly her husband was hurt but wish him a speedy recovery and our sympathy.

Russell is having trouble getting his seeds to come in the garden. Too much rain and not enough sunshine. He says he has got to replant some of his seeds. The peas he first planted are beginning to blossom but haven't grown as tall as usual. It would be nice to get the sunshine needed to dry out the ground enough for things to grow but when it does, it will probably dry out too much. Hard to tell what will happen.

Grace Yates has gotten back to work after having a tonsil removed. A very painful thing to have to have done.

Russell transplanted his tomato plants into the garden yesterday and hopes they will grow alright. Only time will tell.

Having just got home, I haven't had time to hear from the neighbors to know what has been going on only that Howard Miller is home from the hospital where he had a heart attack. Viola, his daughter and my daughter-in-law, came to pick my daughter and me up at the airport and she told me he isn't too well and has to take it real easy. Hope all goes well for him.

Maybe more news next week after I hear what is going on. Until then, take care one and all and have a good week ahead.

Antiperspirants are thought to reduce odor by either inhibiting bacterial growth on the skin or reducing secretions from the sweat glands. Antiperspirant product ingredients judged to be safe and effective by the United States Food and Drug Administration include aluminum chloride, aluminum sulfate, and the aluminum zirconium chlorohydrates.

All individuals do not respond the same way to identical antiperspirant preparations. Product formulation differences can also affect the effectiveness and acceptance of antiperspirants. Apply antiperspirant to an area that is clean and dry. Do not put on clothing until the antiperspirant has had time to dry.

No Sweat!

One of the ways our bodies eliminate excessive heat is through the process of sweating or perspiration. But sweating often produces an offensive odor, particularly under the arms. The odor is caused by bacterial breakdown of secretions of the apocrine sweat glands. To help fight under arm wetness and odor, the majority of adults in North America routinely use antiperspirants. Sales from antiperspirants in the United States approach one billion dollars each year.

Antiperspirants are thought to reduce odor by either inhibiting bacterial growth on the skin or reducing secretions from the sweat glands. Antiperspirant product ingredients judged to be safe and effective by the United States Food and Drug Administration include aluminum chloride, aluminum sulfate, and the aluminum zirconium chlorohydrates.

All individuals do not respond the same way to identical antiperspirant preparations. Product formulation differences can also affect the effectiveness and acceptance of antiperspirants. By GLADYS KILGORE

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tripp and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heino joined their Aunt Mrs. Roland McAllister Sunday and enjoyed a lunch for their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Leonard, who was having a 104th birthday. She received many cards and gifts. Her grandson, Albert Nelson Sr. and wife, also visited her at Ledgeview and had a lobster lunch with her.

Four young ladies from here are graduates from Fryeburg Academy this year.

Mrs. Peggy McKeon and family have moved to Waterford.

Sue Bartlett, the health nurse, was in town one day this week making calls.

Mrs. Shirley Raute took her crew of help to Conway for supper one night.

I was surprised to see a coon sipping the syrup from my hummingbird feeder. I have to take it in nights to keep him away. However he is lovely to look at.

Congratulations to all the graduates in the area. Good luck.

Sunday, June 10, I didn't see any mosquitoes in the area—too cold and windy. They are thick this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oja have had her daughter Beth and family visiting for a few days.

Monday, June 12, Joe Vatcher was planting some potatoes.

Lloyd Poland has sold both of his log cabin homes across from us. Welcome to the neighborhood.

Wednesday, June 14, we went to Zayre's and then visiting the Norman Abbotts and called at the Richard Felts. Roy Silver was taken to emergency at Stephens Memorial Hospital Saturday June 10 with severe infection in his right leg. Thank goodness he went when he did and it wasn't your "arm" Roy. Visited him Thursday afternoon; he is a bit better. Let's end him some cheery cards.

Address Roy Silver, RR2, Bryant Pond, 04218. He may be home by the first of the week.

Evelyn Chamberlain's grandson, Rev. Fred Kathaus and family, from Florida, are visiting here. I bet she has been cooking up a storm. She is a good cook.

Mrs. Florence Isley has been celebrating her 102nd birthday this week. She looks so young and always has a lovely smile. Congratulations.

Callers at the Lawrences have been Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card, Joe Kalinowski, Barbara Knightly, Jeff Coffin, Sharon Silver, Richard Felt and Jen, Odell Heath.

July 1 there will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall, Richard Felt Band, prizes and homemade pie.

sions until Aug. 18.

The summer will be filled with hiking, swimming, field trips, special events and good fun. Scholarships and payment plans are available. For more information, call the YMCA, at 743-7184.

Our Sunday services are 9:30-10:30 a.m. during the summer, followed by a time of fellowship and refreshments.

"Vacation Bible School" June 26-June 30, time 9:15-10:15 a.m., with closing program June 30 at 5:30-6:30 p.m.

June 28 Missionary Jerry Mattson will be with us at 7:30 p.m.

We will never get excited over sowing the seed till we get excited over seeing the need.

By ALICE KIMBALL

Rain, rain go away.
Mrs. Bertha Hunter, Mrs. Linda Hunter and their children, Matthew, Lindsay and David, of Unity, spent Tuesday with me.
On Thursday I went to Otsfield to visit overnight. Friday afternoon I went to Hanover to spend the night and attend the senior banquet and class night exercises at Rumford High School.
Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bancroft attended graduation exercises of Lisbon Falls High School at the Central Maine Youth Center, in Lewiston, Friday evening. Their granddaughter Stephanie Halle was a member of the graduating class.
On Sunday her relatives all gathered at her home in Lisbon Falls for an after-graduation party.
Weston Flint and Mrs. Winona Verrill were recent visitors of Mrs. Elmira Doyen.
Mr. and Mrs. David Salway and I attended the Rumford High School graduation exercises at the Muske Auditorium Sunday. Grandson Derek Adams was a member of the graduating class.
Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Awaik, of Augusta, and Mrs. Connie Hindman spent Sunday with Mrs. Elmira Doyen.
Miss Ivy Philbrook has returned to her home here for the summer.
David and Norma Salway and I spent last Saturday with Bernie and Kattie Gatchell in Auburn. Bernard and Mary Gatchell, of Bryant Pond, were also guests. We all enjoyed an indoor cookout and celebrated Bernie's birthday.
Happy 25th anniversary Dottie and Herbie.

Dawn and Jim Grover, of Norway, Kerri and Robert Bragg, of Bethel, Chapman visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roberts last weekend. Staci Roberts, of Locke Mills, returned home from Germany on June 11.
Harold Smith and sons, Edward, Zachary and Roger, of North Conway, N.H., visited Albert Foster one day last week.
Mrs. Floribel Haines, Mrs. Peggy Coolidge, Mrs. Agnes Haines and Mrs. Lillian Bartlett attended the Bethel Senior Citizens' meeting at Locke Mills June 14.
Robert Hastings is improving slowly at his home and moved the lawn for us. On June 12 and moved the lawn for us. On June 14, Mrs. Cindi Cox and Miss Chick Fritz Morris picked me up and we went to Dixfield to get Mrs. Josephine Tyler, and then we went to Belgrade Lakes for dinner at the Village Inn. Fabulous food, too.
Tim Sheehan and friend Jackie and daughter Jennifer, of Massachusetts, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Chapelle last weekend.
John Foster, of Andover, was here June 12 and mowed the lawn for us. On June 14, Mrs. Cindi Cox and Miss Chick Fritz Morris picked me up and we went to Dixfield to get Mrs. Josephine Tyler, and then we went to Belgrade Lakes for dinner at the Village Inn. Fabulous food, too.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

There was a story that the house was haunted by a body dressed in lavender carrying a parasol. No one knew whether this was true, but one of the dresses in the glass display case was lavender in color, and there was an ancient parasol, furled and faded.
At the last Society meeting, Liane Chapman gave a carefully organized presentation on antique toys. At the meeting in July, Harris Hathaway will speak on growing up in the early 1900s in Woodstock.
Ruby Emery, Annie Crockett, and Ruth Cox gave items to the museum at the last meeting. Thanks also to Dr. Chase for his helpfulness.

He described the options open to employers, including rewards for employees who enroll in basic skill or GED programs, on-site classes in reading, writing or math in cooperation with adult education programs, and the creation of an ethic that encourages and rewards learning.
Mrs. Newell described the role adult education can play as a broker of educational services, as well as a provider of basic skills and vocational training. She highlighted several examples of cooperation in submitting requests for state funding of adult training, including the seminar for Bonanza Pottery workers and welding classes for employees of Bethel Furniture Stock. She encouraged businesses to contact her with ideas for such projects.

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and SAD #44 Adult and Community Education will conduct a needs assessment on employee training during the summer, updating information gathered in their first joint survey done in 1987.
Interest for the first two years. After that there is not much added value, if any.
A good savings or investment plan would bring you as much security and maybe a better return. For further information on insurance, call your local Area Agency on Aging, or write Maine Committee on Aging, State House Station 127, Augusta, 04333.

The Plus Side

When is enough enough? Reading an insurance policy is difficult; understanding it is almost impossible, and deciding what to buy is a dilemma. Some people wonder if they should keep what they have; others wonder if they should invest in more.
Question—"Do I need this Cancer Insurance Policy I've been paying on?"
Answer—"If you have MEDICARE and MEDIGAP insurance, cancer insurance is excess baggage."
Question—"I see former television stars selling life insurance to the elderly on TV. Does this make sense?"
Answer—"It does to the TV star. It's been said, when the stars come out, put your hand on your wallet. When a person buys life insurance after the age of 65, it usually returns only premiums plus interest."

Adult Education

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored a business breakfast on Employee Training Needs on June 15 at the Moses Mason House, in Bethel.
Panelists for the event were Ray Turner, from CMVIT, who is in charge of developing specialized programs for businesses in the areas served by CMVIT; Gilbert Ward, director of Mountain Valley Training; James Abbott, of the Guy Gannett Publishing Company, who heads their Pro-Literacy Project; and Cathy Newell, Adult and Community Education director for SAD #44.
Mr. Turner described several training programs conducted by CMVIT at the request of specific businesses, and discussed the opportunities for satellite courses off-campus. Mountain Valley Training's programs, focusing on training and re-training of eligible workers, were described by Ward, including some joint ventures between Mountain Valley Training and CMVIT.
Basic Skills in the Workplace was the topic of Abbott's presentation, including information on the nature of the workforce in the coming years, with 85 percent of those who will constitute the workforce in the year 2000 being already on the job today, emphasizing the importance of employers investing in the educational upgrading of their present workforce.

He described the options open to employers, including rewards for employees who enroll in basic skill or GED programs, on-site classes in reading, writing or math in cooperation with adult education programs, and the creation of an ethic that encourages and rewards learning.
Mrs. Newell described the role adult education can play as a broker of educational services, as well as a provider of basic skills and vocational training. Environmental education will be pushed at June 24 program in Bryant Pond

The Maine Congress of Lake Associations (COLA) and lakes education programs developed by the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) will be the focus of two workshops at the Environmental Awareness Day program at the Maine Conservation School June 24. The school is in Bryant Pond, and the programs will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Maine Congress of Lake Associations workshop will focus on threats to water quality and multiple user resources of Maine lakes. Following a discussion of the current concerns over declining water quality in many lakes and projected future declines predicted by the DEP lake vulnerability index, a discussion of methods for evaluating lake quality will be held.

COLA is the only statewide citizen organization whose primary function is lake protection. How to form a lake association will be discussed, followed by an explanation of the role that COLA plays at the local and state level in coordinating the needs and concerns of lake associations and individual citizens.

The DEP lakes program includes materials that can be used in schools, plus a videotape presentation and material related to Lakes Week, July 16-22, which can be used by organizations to promote the protection of lake quality.

Obituaries

ALBERT E. VIITALA

Albert E. Viitala, 75, of Dixfield, died Tuesday, June 13, 1989, at his residence. He was born in Greenwood, March 10, 1914, the son of August and Hilda Pulkkinen Viitala. He attended schools in Greenwood. He was married to Virginia Averill on Jan. 23, 1938, at Limerick. The couple lived for several years in Limerick and on the River Road in Dixfield, before moving to Averill Road in 1950. During that time, Mr. Viitala was self-employed as a logger and later worked as a truck driver and heavy equipment operator for Timberlands Inc. for over 28 years, and the Stowell-MacGregor Corp. for 10 years, before his retirement in 1977. He was a former member of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local 340, of Portland; and the United Paperworkers International Union, AFL-CIO.

Mr. Viitala was an avid outdoorsman and enjoyed hunting and fishing.

He is survived by his wife, Virginia, of Dixfield; a daughter, Ms. Carol Stone of Mexico; two sons, Richard of Dixfield, and Gilbert of Greenwood; a sister, Mrs. Frank (na) Davis of Dover, N.H.; 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Another son, August Viitala, died in 1955.

Private family funeral services will be held at their convenience.

IVA BARTLETT HUTCHINSON

Iva (Bartlett) Hutchinson, 78, of South Paris, died Wednesday, June 14, 1989, at her residence after a long illness. She was the widow of Loton F. Hutchinson. She was born in East Bethel, the daughter of Guy and Rose (Greenwood) Bartlett, and had been a life-long resident of Bethel, until establishing her residence in South Paris three years ago. A school teacher by profession, she graduated from Gould Academy in 1929, then taught in Newry before matriculating at Gorham Normal School. She later taught at the West Bethel School for several years. A member of the West Parish Congregational Church, of Bethel, she also held membership in the Purity Chapter #102 Order of the Eastern Star, Bethel, and was a past Worthy Matron of that order.

Mrs. Hutchinson is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Barbara J. Parsons of South Paris; a son, Bartlett M. Hutchinson, of South Paris; six grandchildren and eight nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by a brother, Raymond Bartlett, who died May 29, 1989.

Funeral services were held Saturday, June 17, at the West Bethel Union Church. Interment at the Riverside Cemetery in Bethel.

Births

James and Jacqueline Thurston, of Fryeburg, are pleased to announce the arrival of a baby boy, Tyler James Thurston, born on June 5 at 8:34 a.m. at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, weighing 7 lb, 5 1/2 oz.

Maternal grandparents are Rex Martin, of Bryant Pond, and Donna Bernard, of Andover.

WOODSTOCK SCHOOL KINDERGARTNERS recently went on a field trip to the Oxford Airport. There, airport manager (and Woodstock School parent) Jim Horowitz took Kindergarten teacher Robin Smith and parent volunteer Dixie Inman up for a flight. And the children all had a chance to climb into the cockpit and touch the controls.

BIKE TREKKERS—Members of the Cunningham family, of Winthrop, prepare for the start of the fifth annual "Sunday River to the Sea" bicycle trek last Friday. About 400 bicyclists—including Mary, Gordon and Dillon Gillies of Bethel—event raises money, through pledges gathered by the riders, to combat respiratory disorders, such as those suffered by Carolyn Cunningham (far left). The other members of the Cunningham family at the Sunday River Ski Resort starting line are, from left, Brandon, Gloria, Dennis and Hilary.

MAHOOSUC ARTS AT CAMDEN

Mary Gillies, Marguerite Graham and Vicki Rackliffe represented the Mahoosuc Arts Council at the Maine Arts Sponsors Association annual spring conference in Camden, June 7-9. The Maine Arts Sponsors Association (MASA) is a private, not-for-profit corporation providing services to arts presenters and performing artists in Maine. MASA is the only organization in the state whose sole purpose is to provide educational and communication services that ensure high quality arts management and programming.

Workshops were offered in many areas, such as fund-raising, publicity and program development, computers in the arts, and media and the arts. A resource room session gave presenters, artists, management and regional and government agencies the opportunity to talk and share information.

Thursday evening, seven artists performed in Showcase '89 at the Camden-Rockport High School. The Showcase featured stand-up comedian Jackson Gilman as master of ceremonies, Banjo Ban and the Mid-Nile Flowsboys, Al Miller and Brad Terry, the New Hampshire Theatre Project (formerly Kitchen Sink Mime), Glenshane, Michael Cooper, and the Royal River Philharmonic Jazz.

Band. Following the showcase, conference participants had an opportunity to chat with performers as well as "blackbook" programs with other sponsors in the state.

The Mahoosuc representatives were fortunate to be invited to have a private consultation with the conference's keynote speaker, Susan Parr, who is executive director of the Association of Performing Arts Presenters, based in Washington, D.C. Ms. Parr was impressed with the programs the Mahoosuc Arts Council has presented during its short existence and she shared ideas for continued growth and success of the council. The council members returned to Bethel energized with a new sense of purpose and a long list of program possibilities for the SAD #44 community in the coming years.
